

DESPONDENT FATHER ENDS LIFE WITH RIFLE

John M. O'Farrell Shoots
Self in Home on Jonesboro Road.

Despondent over unemployment and ill health, John M. O'Farrell, 36, father of nine children, ended his life yesterday afternoon with a bullet through his head.

O'Farrell shot himself with a small caliber rifle at his home at 1675 Jonesboro road.

County police said he was alone at the time but the sound of the shot brought members of his family to the bedroom where he had committed suicide. He was dead before doctors arrived.

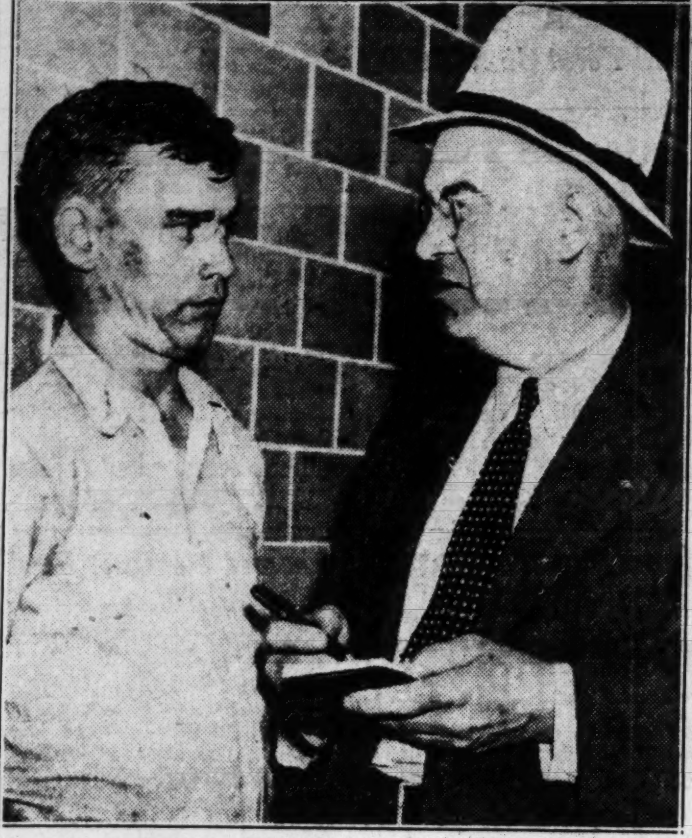

His wife told officers O'Farrell had frequently threatened to kill himself because he had been sick and unable to find work. A coroner's inquest will be held today.

In addition to his wife he is survived by five sons, John Jr., William, Oscar, Fred and Charles O'Farrell; four daughters, Ruth, Carolyn, Ada and Martha O'Farrell; three brothers, Oscar, G. E. and Charles O'Farrell; three sisters, Mrs. H. J. Rowe, Mrs. R. M. Jones and Mrs. G. M. Craig, and two half-brothers, F. D. and Joe O'Farrell.

Mr. O'Farrell was a well-known resident of the Lakewood Heights section and was formerly an officer of Lakewood Lodge F. & A. M. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced by Brandon-Bond-Cond.

He Fired at Woman Instead of Burglar

A. J. Perry, 28, of 568 English avenue (left), who yesterday morning fatally wounded Mrs. Emma Johnson, of 555 Paynes avenue, N. W., thinking she was a burglar. On the right is Detective Dick Englebert, who is conducting the investigation. Perry admitted shooting Mrs. Johnson as he and neighbors hunted the burglar. He said he saw a figure walking in the Johnson back yard and fired. The woman died a short while later at a hospital. Perry is being held on "suspicion" of murder.

WOMAN IS KILLED IN BURGLAR HUNT

Officers arrived. Perry and others thought until then a negro man had been wounded, they said.

Mrs. Johnson died at the hospital as doctors were administering a blood transfusion.

Clothed in Night Dress.

Her son, Fred, told officers his mother was in the habit of walking in the yard at night. She was clothed only in a night dress when she was shot.

Police said Perry readily admitted firing the fatal shot. He has been a resident of that section for a number of years and is well known to his neighbors, it was said.

Funeral services for Mrs. Johnson are to be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole.

The Rev. W. M. Albert will officiate and interment is to be in Hollywood cemetery.

In addition to her son she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. W. E. Besser and Mrs. P. H. King, of Atlanta.

The sentences, with the consent of a jury, will be served at the Shelby county penal farm.

Dogs Bite Ten Persons In City Over Week-End

Week-end dog bites brought 10 persons to the city health office before noon yesterday, where Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, advised beginning of the Pasteur treatment in all cases of bites on the face or head. In other cases the dogs were placed in observation pens at the city pound, where 60 dogs are now incarcerated.

Dr. Kennedy said that the fact that 10 persons reported bites yesterday before noon was unusual but not startling due to the accumulation of cases over the week-end. The health officer said that the number of dog bites reported was increasing because more persons when bitten came to the health office for advice than has been the case heretofore.

Inoculation has reduced greatly the number of cases of rabies found in the animals, he said, and the number of "mad dog" cases found here was negligible. In cases where treatment is advised, the serum is obtained from the State Board of Health and administered at Grady hospital.

DANGER TO CITRUS SEEN IN FLA. CANAL

Growers Prevented From Condemning Proposed Waterway.

LAKELAND, Fla., June 17.—(AP) Divided opinion of members of the Associated Citrus Growers and Shippers of Florida on possible damage of the proposed Gulf-Atlantic ship canal to their industry late today brought a ruling from the chair to halt brief debate.

The ruling prevented action on a resolution to "oppose and condemn" the cross-state waterway because of the danger of contaminating Florida's fresh water supply.

Walter F. Coachman, of Jacksonville, executive vice president of the National Gulf-Atlantic Ship Canal Association, branded as "half-truths" the argument of Marvin H. Walker, of Tampa, editor of the Florida Grower and canal opponent. Coachman urged that action be delayed until "you hear both sides of it."

Walker challenged Coachman to public debate in Jacksonville or Ocala. Coachman did not answer the challenge, but suggested that both appear before the board of directors of the Associated Growers and Shippers to present both sides of the canal question.

Walker said the canal would prove a serious threat to Florida's fresh water supply and he declared geologists were of this opinion.

RUSSELL SEEKS U. S. AID FOR GEORGIA PENSIONS

2 Amendments To Security
Bill Offered; One Designed for County System.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP) A return to the "Dark Ages" of barbarism and savagery was foreseen here today by Senator Russell if the nations of the world persist in pursuing a policy of "self-sufficiency."

Addressing the graduating class of the University of Michigan, Hull said there were but two alternatives—"We go forward to other greater achievements of material and spiritual culture with a concomitant growth of every kind of material and spiritual interchange within each nation and among nations; or we must recognize that our culture has reached its apex and is entering into definite decline and decay."

"In the latter case—and in that case only," he said, "every manner of relationship built up in preceding centuries will become loosened and dissolved and nations will again achieve 'self-sufficiency'—the self-sufficiency of barbarism and savagery."

"This last picture is an extreme but not a possibility of a return to the Dark Ages in some form is not, I think, historically excluded. Human history has known such cycles before."

The university conferred the honorary degree of master of science upon Howard W. Blakeslee, science editor of the Associated Press, Blakeslee is an alumnus of the university.

Professor John G. Winter, head of the Latin department, presented Mr. Blakeslee for the degree with the following citation:

"Howard Walter Blakeslee; 30 years ago a student in the college of literature, science and arts, whose informed accounts of the trends and results of scientific research, have justly won for him a distinctive place in American journalism. In his long service as science editor of the Associated Press, he has shown a remarkable ability in reporting the proceedings of learned societies and has interested scholars and laymen alike by his effective grasp of scientific problems. He lends honor and dignity to the profession which he so ably represents."

The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Hull.

The secretary of state asserted that while the United States was experiencing domestic economic recovery, "the situation in the international field is still deteriorating."

He said he was not one who thought a new world war was inevitable nor would he involve this country. Nevertheless,

GIRL ATTACKED,
SLAIN IN ILLINOIS

19-Year-Old Found Beaten
To Death in Peoria
Cemetery Creek.

PEORIA, Ill., June 17.—(AP)—Mildred M. Hallmark, 19-year-old daughter of a Peoria toolmaker, was found beaten to death today in a small creek in Springfield cemetery. All of the clothing had been stripped from her body and physicians said she had been assaulted.

An open fountain pen was found beside the body and the police believed she had used it in an attempt to ward off her attacker.

Miss Hallmark was last seen about 11 p.m. Sunday talking to a young man near the restaurant where she was employed as a waitress. The police began a search for the man.

PITTS DECLARED
ELIGIBLE TO PLAY

Involving the use of weapons are committed by youths of 17 to 25.

"There is no objection whatsoever," Landis said, "to baseball clubs assisting paroled convicts by employing them in any other capacity in the business of the club, but employment connected with the playing of the game as player, coach, manager or umpire presents a wholly different situation."

"It concerns other clubs and cannot be left up to the individual clubs. Although he said the appeal of the Albany club could not be ruled on by him as presented, Landis declared the case came within his jurisdiction because it is one in which a player has a financial claim amounting to $300 a month or more.

"In other affairs of life," he said, "wherein provision is made for disqualification of persons guilty of crime, criminal conduct before seeking to enter such service or employment is a cause for disqualification in like manner as if committed thereafter. In so far as concerns a general question of fitness for service as a professional player, practically the same question is presented."

"There can be no change in the general policy representing character qualifications for such employment."

The judge, commenting on the official court record of Pitts' sentence for robbery, said:

"The record shows that it was Pitts who went into a grocery store in Brooklyn and held up a lone clerk with a gun. His accomplice, who was one year older than Pitts, was unarmed and remained outside the store as lookout."

"His accomplice, the record shows, had no previous criminal record, but Pitts had been in five other similar robberies."

"That record, however, is not important in this case."

Landis said "many reputable people" had approached him in Pitts' behalf.

"The opinion of many of these people," he said, "is one that there have been a complete reformation in Pitts' character. This fact and the fact that barring him from baseball would perhaps have a destroying effect on his entire career provide the reasons for my action."

Hull Sees Return to 'Barbarism' In Fight Against Internationalism

Secretary Also Warns War Abroad Is Our Concern Because of Indirect Damage to U. S. Economy; Science Editor of Associated Press Awarded Degree.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 17.—(AP) less, he said, "any clash abroad would at best so dislocate the slow progress of recovery here that we could not, in the long run, avoid its disastrous effects."

"I cannot, therefore, with good conscience," Hull said, "tell you that as Americans you are immune from the effects of a possible conflict by being far removed from its locus, and that you may look without concern on the darkening clouds around the magic circle of the United States."

Hull spoke of the Roosevelt administration's trade and arms policies and asserted that it had not broken with any of the basic principles of American democracy despite the rise in foreign nations of new political systems bent on remolding western civilization.

Any nation which will not co-operate in controlling armaments and "thus retards our world progress," he said, "should be branded."

Personally, I favor it and hope that council will take whatever action is necessary to keep the fast time advantages for our city."

"I am in favor of eastern time for Atlanta," Reynolds said. "We must synchronize with our trade area if we are to keep pace with the march of progress. As it is now, we are half an hour behind most of it by actual sun time, but a whole hour behind by our central standard clock time."

"I, too, favor establishment of eastern time for Atlanta," Milam said. "We are now a cosmopolitan city. We should do what is necessary to keep in the forefront. I can think of no more effective way to do that than to adopt a time which coincides with the time which prevails in the vast greater portion of our trade area."

"Eastern time is the only time for us to have," Beck asserted. "Now is the time to accomplish a progressive step in the interests of all the people of Atlanta. No undue hardships would be worked if we kept what we have now, and that is all the adoption of eastern time means."

"There is no doubt but that daylight saving time is a distinct advantage to Atlanta this summer. Literally thousands of persons are getting the benefits of outdoor exercise because of it. I can conceive of no reasonable argument against keeping it throughout the winter. It will mean much to business generally, and will react to the advantage of every citizen of this city. I shall vote for and support the move."

GIPSY SMITH EXHORTS CHURCHES TO PRAYER

"Officials' Night" Launches Second Week of Revival at City Auditorium.

Monday night was "Church Officials' Night" at the auditorium. At the outset of the services Gipsy Smith told his honor guests that he had them there "for a special purpose." He gave emphatic opinions about churches that think more of programs than prayer and operate "without consulting God."

Once during the sermon the silence that followed a particularly vigorous statement provoked the question "Why are you so silent? Am I touching the spot?"

"Is there a church in Atlanta that doesn't need more religion?" he shouted. Cries of "No! No!" came from the section reserved for church officials.

"Then, my brethren, you have a great opportunity," he said. "Use it for the glory of God. Go back to your pastor and say 'Count on me.' Talk the religion of the New Testament in your homes and in your churches."

Monday night began the second week of Gipsy Smith revival services under sponsorship of the evangelical churches of Atlanta. Services will be conducted at the auditorium at 7:45 o'clock every night except Saturday. There will be a special service for children 16 years old and under at 8:30 Tuesday afternoon.

Singing by a vested choir selection from the young people of the First Presbyterian church, St. Mark Methodist and the First Christian church, and directed by Charles A. Sheldon and Mrs. A. F. Dickson will be a feature of the meeting. Superintendent of Schools William A. Sutton has issued an appeal to all school children within the age limit to attend.

Gipsy Smith Jr., assisted his father in conducting the Monday night services. Mrs. Gipsy Jr. and daughter, Betty, were introduced. Father and son made a striking picture as they sang a favorite duet, Junior leading and Gipsy joining in with his resonant robust baritone.

He declared that without the Holy Ghost "you may talk like an angel, but you'll only be as sounding brass or tinkling cymbal. . . . How can you?"

expect a church to be run by unconverted people? . . . You might as well try to burn a hole in a brick wall with a candle as try to get sinners converted without the power of the Holy Ghost. . . . The only preaching that the Holy Ghost blesses is the preaching of Jesus. . . . Go and use the opportunities you have for the glory of God!"

Once in his sermon Gipsy paid his respect to alcohol by declaring that if he had his way he would "set fire to every distillery in God's universe." He spoke in contempt of those "who pray 'our Kingdom come' on Sundays and then go out and vote for the brewers."

At Tuesday night's service there will be special reserved seats for members of organized Bible classes and for officers and employees of the Atlantic-Pacific Tea Company.

PROCESSING LEVY HIT BY MATTRESS MAKERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 17.—(AP) Nine southern mattress manufacturers urged the suspension of the processing tax on cotton used as a filling material at an Agricultural Adjustment Administration committee hearing today.

Jacob R. Hass, of Memphis, told the committee the industry formerly used about 250,000 bales of cotton yearly. Since the tax became effective, he said, this amount has been reduced from 75 to 80 per cent.

C. C. Farrington, assistant chief of the AAA marketing section; Percy C. Young and E. H. Omohundro conducted the hearing. The AAA is investigating the effect of the processing tax on cotton's use as a filling material for mattresses, cushions, pads, pillows and studio couches.

WHERE ARE THEIR TONGUES?

In his recent address before the Farm Clubs of America, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace made the bold assertion that "we are passing through times when there must be greater emphasis on the federal government than on the interests of the several states."

In arguing the necessity for careful study of "the question of state or federal dominance in the field of government," he takes the further position that "if we are to have a strong nation, we must discover to what extent we must delegate powers to the individual states and to what extent keep them in federal hands."

Secretary Wallace overlooks the fact that it is not within the province nor the power of the national government to "delegate" to the states rights and powers that are guaranteed to them under the constitution.

It is unfortunate that certain of the self-appointed spokesmen of the administration are pressing the subject of further centralization of power in Washington at the expense of the reserved rights of the states.

Professor Tugwell, the No. 1 brain trust, was the original proponent of this pernicious doctrine and Secretary Wallace and others of the dreaming theorists who are now assuming to speak for the administration have been quick to seize upon the proposal.

Fortunately, President Roosevelt has never, directly nor indirectly, committed himself to the proposition that the states be forced to surrender the rights that are reserved to them by the constitution.

Whether or not this agitation will go so far as to bring a direct proposal of a constitutional amendment, it is certain that it would be overwhelmingly voted down by congress.

If submitted it would not be ratified by the states.

The President has been wise enough not to become ensnared in this dangerous mesh.

Already the republicans are seizing upon the repeated utterances of some of the brain trusters as the basis of the outstanding issue of the campaign of next year. This is evidenced by the action of the so-called "grass roots" convention in which it was boldly proclaimed that the "principle of the rights of the states will be involved in the next national campaign." It was sounded as a pean of hope that this is to be the big issue of the presidential contest.

Nothing that the president has ever said justifies such a conclusion.

Sooner or later, however, he will undoubtedly be put in a position where he will either have to go along with the Tugwells and the Wallaces or he must disown their pernicious activities in behalf of the creation of an empire with all power lodged in Washington and with the state lines practically eliminated.

It is a dangerous step and one that the people of the country will never agree to.

Good Times In Uganda.

Uganda, that immense stretch of African territory which Joseph Chamberlain once offered to the Jews for settlement, is having a moderate spree of prosperity if we may judge from the following item which appears in the Uganda Standard. The article is marked: "needed," which explains perhaps its rather quaint language: "Many years past we have never seen so many people coming in such great numbers to the shops in the city as this year. This shows that this cotton season has been well to all parties, anyhow. It is stated that some cycle dealers are making sales of about 20 and upwards in cycles per day as well as selling also too much in the accessories. The drapery shops are the most busy functions to mention, especially in women's dresses. We hope that this has made a lesson to view what may happen next year."

But then comes a news-item of less propitious character, which goes as follows: "We hear that Mr. Nantani, who at Masaja was set on fire on the night of 5-4-35 during midnight and some six goats perished therein. It is said that the fire really happened through a bad hearted person setting fire on the house."

Too bad! With the cotton season behaving so well to all parties anyhow, there ought not to be any "bad hearted" persons in Uganda; all should be sweetness and light and prosperity.

Pilsudski's and Lenin's Brain.
The announcement that Pilsudski's brain is to be used as material for research for another ten years, the Moscow Institute is collecting brains, right along for study and comparison and the results will not be known for a long time. The chief difficulty is shortage of material.

Every word of this is as true today as it was when it was uttered by Webster.

Where is the master mind in the United States senate today who will utter a similar clarion call against the radical utterances of those who, as in Webster's day, would match their untold theories against the proven efficiency of the greatest governmental document ever written?

The senate is not lacking in men who can sound a warning as powerful as that of Webster.

But where are their tongues?

AN IMPOSSIBLE SITUATION
There will be general approval of the refusal of the Fulton County Welfare Board to agree to the plan proposed by FERA officials in Washington for the joint care of the 10,000 unemployables recently turned over to the local board by the government.

After several conferences the board and Miss Shepperson, FERA administrator for Georgia, evolved a sound and practical program of co-operation between the government and the community for the care of these men, women and children who must be supported by the public because they are either physically or mentally incapacitated for work.

The wisdom of this plan is attested by the fact that it is approved by Miss Shepperson, whose administration of federal relief in the state has won universal commendation both in Georgia and in Washington. In no other state has federal relief been more efficiently and economically administered than under Miss Shepperson's direction in Georgia.

Her approval of the plan submitted to the Washington authorities assured that it was sound and workable and that the interest of the federal government had been conserved in every possible way in keeping with the emergent situation existing from the turning back on the community of 10,000 additional unemployables.

The counter-proposition, as pointed out by Chairman Harrington, of the local board, is both impracticable and unworkable, and the board has no other recourse than to refuse to approve it.

The only sensible way out of the impasse that has been reached is for the officials of the FERA in Washington to leave to Miss Shepperson the determination of the gravity of the situation existing and the safeguarding of the government's interest.

If this is done, it is certain that a fair and equitable agreement can be reached immediately between her and the outstanding Atlanta citizens who compose the local welfare board—but this is not to be expected if officials in Washington, unfamiliar with local conditions, continue in their attempt to dictate the terms of an agreement to solve a problem with which they can at best be but little familiar.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—It is more or less an open secret that the Justice Department lawyers generally consider the Guffey-Snyder coal bill to be unconstitutional. This may be denied now because the White House is pushing the bill energetically in congress.

But around the department, the right-hand men of Attorney-General Cummings are freely saying, off the record, that the bill is illegal on three points. Its price-fixing features are definitely monopolistic; its tax provision is coercive and not for the purpose of raising revenue; and, anyway, the supreme court already has held that coal mining is not interstate commerce.

This situation has stirred up considerable speculation as to why President Roosevelt chose to get behind a bill which his lawyers consider to be of doubtful legality.

The story most widely accepted by those in the know is that the president has seized this issue as a vehicle to carry home his opposition to the supreme court decision on NRA.

OPPORTUNITY It is a rather deep story but a plausible one, and the only explanation for the enigmatic situation surrounding the bill.

The truth is the public reaction to the NRA decision was not what the administration desired. President Roosevelt's friends blame it on the fact that the country failed to understand the issue. Constitutional questions are always involved and not widely understood. The sick chicken case was not one which could be dramatized easily before the country.

Coal affords a broader opportunity. Nearly everyone thinks the bill is meritorious. A majority of coal operators, as represented by production tonnage, want it. The miners are threatening to strike unless it is passed. The only people strongly against it are the large coal consumers (railroads, utilities), who fear higher prices. Nonunion operators also oppose it because it gives more power to the United Mine Workers.

The National Coal Association, representing the industry, has taken no stand on it, being neither for it nor against it. Virtually all the northern operators, except the Mellon crowd, are for it.

COERCION Everyone on the inside of the situation agrees that a swift court test of the bill is certain. The highest mine worker authorities say they take that for granted. So does the coal association. They all expect that it will be taken to the supreme court next winter in plenty of time for a decision before the 1936 presidential campaign opens.

That the court will throw out the bill also is taken for granted by a majority of authorities. In the Colorado case, the court said (page 25): "Coal mining is not interstate commerce and the power by officials may be taken as its regulation as such." It added that, if congress does certain "recurring practices" likely to obstruct, restrain or burden the industry, it may subject them to national supervision and restraint.

But the Guffey-Snyder bill goes further. It taxes all operators and returns 99 per cent of the tax to those operators who join up under a code. The purpose of the tax is merely to force the operators in under a code.

STABILIZATION The New Dealers have been playing around coyly with the problem of international currency stabilization lately. It is known to have been the topic of recent White House conferences.

A very significant paragraph on the subject appeared in a memo recently given out by the Commerce Department. It was not written off-hand by a departmental clerk, but was carefully worked up by officials and may be taken as a direct hint of New Deal thought on the subject. It follows:

"It is generally agreed among world statesmen, scholars and businessmen that action should be taken to bring the currencies of leading countries into some definite form of equilibrium. Until the relationship of international currencies has been established upon a basis inspiring more confidence than the present improvised system of clearing transactions between nations. . . . It is reasonable to assume that the total volume of world trade will not expand appreciably in the coming months. Moreover, if the gold bloc should be forced to give ground, except in accordance with international agreement, world trade would undoubtedly receive another serious setback."

REBUFF Unofficial feelers sent out by the New Deal have developed the fact that Britain does not want to stabilize. She considers the dollar undervalued. We consider the pound overvalued. Also, money has become more deeply involved with the tariff and war debt questions. Trying to settle all those things involves a stupendous task, for which the world is not yet ready, if the financial authorities among the New Dealers understand the situation correctly. These things will be settled some day, but not just yet.

TENSION Here's an amusing one on the Russo-Japanese tension along the Siberian border. A few days ago, the Soviets lodged a protest at Tokyo against the killing of a soviet soldier by Japanese troops along the border. The Japanese asserted the soviet trooper was shot on Manchukuo's soil. They pointed to the fact he is buried there. The Soviets have retorted that the Japanese carried his body back and buried it on Manchukuo soil to escape the charge of crossing the border.

It added that, if congress does certain "recurring practices" likely to obstruct, restrain or burden the industry, it may subject them to national supervision and restraint.

But the Guffey-Snyder bill goes further. It taxes all operators and returns 99 per cent of the tax to those operators who join up under a code. The purpose of the tax is merely to force the operators in under a code.

STABILIZATION The New Dealers have been playing around coyly with the problem of international currency stabilization lately. It is known to have been the topic of recent White House conferences.

A very significant paragraph on the subject appeared in a memo recently given out by the Commerce Department. It was not written off-hand by a departmental clerk, but was carefully worked up by officials and may be taken as a direct hint of New Deal thought on the subject. It follows:

"It is generally agreed among world statesmen, scholars and businessmen that action should be taken to bring the currencies of leading countries into some definite form of equilibrium. Until the relationship of international currencies has been established upon a basis inspiring more confidence than the present improvised system of clearing transactions between nations. . . . It is reasonable to assume that the total volume of world trade will not expand appreciably in the coming months. Moreover, if the gold bloc should be forced to give ground, except in accordance with international agreement, world trade would undoubtedly receive another serious setback."

REBUFF Unofficial feelers sent out by the New Deal have developed the fact that Britain does not want to stabilize. She considers the dollar undervalued. We consider the pound overvalued. Also, money has become more deeply involved with the tariff and war debt questions. Trying to settle all those things involves a stupendous task, for which the world is not yet ready, if the financial authorities among the New Dealers understand the situation correctly. These things will be settled some day, but not just yet.

TENSION Here's an amusing one on the Russo-Japanese tension along the Siberian border. A few days ago, the Soviets lodged a protest at Tokyo against the killing of a soviet soldier by Japanese troops along the border. The Japanese asserted the soviet trooper was shot on Manchukuo's soil. They pointed to the fact he is buried there. The Soviets have retorted that the Japanese carried his body back and buried it on Manchukuo soil to escape the charge of crossing the border.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—It is more or less an open secret that the Justice Department lawyers generally consider the Guffey-Snyder coal bill to be unconstitutional. This may be denied now because the White House is pushing the bill energetically in congress.

But around the department, the right-hand men of Attorney-General Cummings are freely saying, off the record, that the bill is illegal on three points. Its price-fixing features are definitely monopolistic; its tax provision is coercive and not for the purpose of raising revenue; and, anyway, the supreme court already has held that coal mining is not interstate commerce.

This situation has stirred up considerable speculation as to why President Roosevelt chose to get behind a bill which his lawyers consider to be of doubtful legality.

The story most widely accepted by those in the know is that the president has seized this issue as a vehicle to carry home his opposition to the supreme court decision on NRA.

OPPORTUNITY It is a rather deep story but a plausible one, and the only explanation for the enigmatic situation surrounding the bill.

The truth is the public reaction to the NRA decision was not what the administration desired. President Roosevelt's friends blame it on the fact that the country failed to understand the issue. Constitutional questions are always involved and not widely understood. The sick chicken case was not one which could be dramatized easily before the country.

Coal affords a broader opportunity. Nearly everyone thinks the bill is meritorious. A majority of coal operators, as represented by production tonnage, want it. The miners are threatening to strike unless it is passed. The only people strongly against it are the large coal consumers (railroads, utilities), who fear higher prices. Nonunion operators also oppose it because it gives more power to the United Mine Workers.

The National Coal Association, representing the industry, has taken no stand on it, being neither for it nor against it. Virtually all the northern operators, except the Mellon crowd, are for it.

COERCION Everyone on the inside of the situation agrees that a swift court test of the bill is certain. The highest mine worker authorities say they take that for granted. So does the coal association. They all expect that it will be taken to the supreme court next winter in plenty of time for a decision before the 1936 presidential campaign opens.

That the court will throw out the bill also is taken for granted by a majority of authorities. In the Colorado case, the court said (page 25): "Coal mining is not interstate commerce and the power by officials may be taken as its regulation as such." It added that, if congress does certain "recurring practices" likely to obstruct, restrain or burden the industry, it may subject them to national supervision and restraint.

But the Guffey-Snyder bill goes further. It taxes all operators and returns 99 per cent of the tax to those operators who join up under a code. The purpose of the tax is merely to force the operators in under a code.

IMPROVEMENTS IN RAILROAD PASSENGER SERVICE

Despite handicaps of decreased earnings and increased expenses, the American railroads are continually improving their service—often at heavy expense.

The railroads were pioneers in adopting "air conditioning"—perhaps the most spectacular of all recent improvements to increase the comfort of travel by rail. Although air conditioning was adopted only about four years ago, the railroads today have about 6,000 air-conditioned passenger cars.

Within the very near future all through Pullman cars operated over the Central of Georgia will be completely air-conditioned, this improvement having already been installed on some of these cars. On its local schedules, the two Pullmans between Savannah and Atlanta, it is continuing the innovation introduced last summer of pre-cooling these cars before leaving their stations. This service has proved its effectiveness as an aid to the comfort of passengers using these cars.

For the added comfort of passengers on its day trains between Savannah, Macon and Atlanta, the Central of Georgia now operates two air-conditioned buffet-lounge coaches. Passengers may use these coaches with tickets bought at regular coach fare of one and one-half cents a mile, plus moderate charge for seat reservation. Revolving, adjustable chairs, attractive interior decorations and other modern features—including buffet service providing all meals en route—have caused these new cars to prove very popular with the traveling public.

There was never a time when the railroad passenger got as much for his money as at present. Railroad fares generally are lower than ever before. The safety of the railroads is at the highest point in history, and the traveler is safer in a railroad car than on the street, in his office or shop, or even at home. Air-conditioning, too, is not the only improvement making the railroad passenger car the most comfortable means of getting from place to place.

For comfort, economy, safety and all-weather reliability there is no means of transportation that can compare with railroad passenger service.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

terday. However, in Washington it was said nothing had been done on the Georgia situation but a development might be expected in a few days. Dispatches from Washington were to the effect that a letter to the Georgia department had been written in the office of Thomas MacDonald, chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, but that it had not been mailed. Contents of the communication were not divulged.

It was known, however, that forces were at work in Washington to bring about peace between the Georgia department and the federal bureau and it was thought possible that all difficulties might be ironed out and the letter from MacDonald never put into the mails. The United States bureau yesterday declined to confirm reports that Director MacDonald had decided on the new setup in Georgia, and Governor Talma said here he had heard of no change in the situation.

The federal bureau was threatened to halt funds to Georgia because the highway board has declined to initiate the Ball's Ferry bridge project urged by Congressman Carl Vinson, of Mississippi.

Chairman W. E. Wilburn of the highway board was out of the city yesterday, but Commissioner Max L. McRae said he knew nothing of the federal bureau's plans. The law setting up the present federal aid road fund provides the projects shall be initiated by the highway boards of the various states, but whether or not the federal bureau can set up its own agency could not be learned here.

3 JUDGES CONVICT ANNE LYDDANE AID
Case Tried Last Week But Announcement of Verdict Delayed.

ROCKVILLE, Md., June 17.—(AP) Three judges today found John M. Boland guilty of conspiring with Anne Lyddane to murder her husband, Frances.

The case was tried last week without a jury, but announcement of the verdict was withheld until this afternoon.

Mrs. Morris refused to answer many of the questions put to her by attorneys representing the insurance company where the sworn statement was taken. She explained at the last time that she was willing to answer any questions relative to matters covered by the insurance policies, but that she would not give information on business transactions not connected with the case.

Silent on Negotiations.
She declined to tell whether negotiations were in progress in August, 1932, for the extension of a $10,000 mortgage on the home at 2130 East Lake road, which matured shortly after the fire; whether she had a bank account in her own name in 1934; whether she paid the taxes on the home destroyed by fire; what property she transferred to her husband during the period the house was being built; and whether her husband had put any property into the Lyddane home.

Mrs. Morris, under questioning, described the furnishings of her home, telling that it had been bought at various times after the house was completed in 1922. She did not remember, she said, from what companies the furnishings were bought, as some of it came from Grand Rapids, Mich., some from a Japanese import company in California, and some was bought in Atlanta.

KILGORE PROTESTS LIVESTOCK RATES
Kentuckian Says Freight Association Proposal Would Hurt Trade.

Representing Kentucky and Tennessee farm bureaus at a hearing before a freight rate committee of the Southern Freight Association, Kilgore executive secretary of the Kentucky bureau, protested yesterday a proposal to increase stocker and feeder livestock rates.

The proposal would restrict the application of feeder and stocker rates "to such consignments as are reshipped from the feed lot or pasture by rail," Kilgore said.

Kilgore said he was "firmly convinced" this proposal "would defeat the two main objectives: (1) Forcing stocker and feeder cattle brought into the south to be reshipped to point of first sale by rail; (2) the increase in livestock tonnage by rail and with it an increase in revenue and profits to the railroads."

"Having worked with southern farmers for the past 14 years," he added, "I believe the main result of the adoption of this proposal would be the increasing of the cost of feeder and stocker cattle to southern farmers and the discouragement of our southern livestock industry."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SPREADING IN N. C.
RALEIGH, N. C., June 17.—(AP)

Six new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in North Carolina today, to register 140 for the year in the worst outbreak in the state since the disease was made reportable in 1917. There have been five deaths.

Meanwhile four officials of the state board of health in Washington for the annual conference called by the surgeon general were expected to discuss the infantile paralysis situation with federal experts.

COLLEEN MOORE SEEKS DIVORCE FROM BROKER
LOS ANGELES, June 17.—(AP)

Colleen Moore, film actress, filed suit today for divorce against Alfred P. Scott, charging he had shown a harsh attitude toward her and had systematically avoided her.

Scott, a New York broker, married the actress in 1932 in Florida. It was her second marriage.

Miss Moore filed suit under the legal name of Mrs. Kathleen Morrison Scott.

MORRIS' WIFE DENIES HE ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Reading of Deposition Feature of Fire Insurance Suit in U. S. Court.

Emphatic denial that L. M. Morris attempted suicide at the time of his arrest on a charge of arson in connection with the destruction by fire of his Druid Hills mansion on August 7, 1932, was made by Mrs. Morris in a deposition read yesterday before Judge E. Marvin Underwood in federal court.

The federal court hearing is to determine whether Mrs. Morris, as president of Lilgemont, Inc., which owned the house, has forfeited "the right to sue three insurance companies for $22,500 in fire insurance. The hearing continued yesterday and will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

A sworn statement made by Mrs. Morris at an insurance company hearing on December 2, 1932, was read into the record, and in it she related the circumstances which led officers to believe that Morris attempted to take his own life three weeks after the fire.

Living in Garage.
"We were living in the garage at the rear of our home," Mrs. Morris said in the statement. "The officers came there about midnight and hammered on the door. My husband went down to see what was wanted, and two of the men returned upstairs with him. He asked permission to talk to me for a few minutes, which was granted."

"Knowing that when he accompanied the officers I would be alone, Mr. Morris went over and took an old revolver from a drawer. He examined it and saw that it was empty and then pulled the trigger, making a clicking noise which was heard by the officers."

"My husband was very much upset, not because he was guilty of any crime, which charge was ridiculous, but because of the appearance of the officers. He was very much incensed, while I was quite calm. It was the first time my husband was ever away from home at night."

Corporation Explained.
Explaining why Lilgemont, Inc., was formed, Mrs. Morris stated that was because her husband had been in very poor health and that the corporation was organized so as to provide for the future of their children. The corporation was named for their children, Lillian, George and Montgomery.

Mrs. Morris refused to answer many of the questions put to her by attorneys representing the insurance company where the sworn statement was taken. She explained at the last time that she was willing to answer any questions relative to matters covered by the insurance policies, but that she would not give information on business transactions not connected with the case.

'Desertions' From Pioneers' Ranks Slow Up Matanuska Colonization

Director of Project Reveals Dissatisfaction Due to Rash Promises Made to Laborers Before Leaving States; Sawmill Equipment Lacking.

By ARVILLE SCHALEBEN.
(Copyright, 1935, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

PALEME, Alaska, June 17.—Harassed and worried by delays and failures in the Matanuska valley colonization program, Director Tom Irwin, in a spontaneous talk to colony leaders, promised that "if you'll stick together, the government won't let you down."

Irwin charged that efforts were being made to wreck the colonization. "You can't tell where it is," he said. "You can't lay a finger on it, but you know that there is that undercurrent. There are some colonists who want to go back," he continued. "It is pitiful to know that they were promised that 'if you'll stick together, the government won't let you down.'"

"There are some colonists who want to go back," he continued. "It is pitiful to know that they were promised that 'if you'll stick together, the government won't let you down.'"

"There are some colonists who want to go back," he continued. "It is pitiful to know that they were promised that 'if you'll stick together, the government won't let you down.'"

Promises Unkept.
Irwin was referring to the fact that many colonists say that Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan social workers told them there would be work in the Matanuska valley. They were misled, he said, and that was a matter of not trying to get information. If they had only read the papers they would have seen that this whole community is just planned—just planned to make a failure of it.

"I appreciate the action of those colonists who have been helpful," Irwin continued. "There have been some bad errors in getting supplies, the tools for instance. But we're going to see you through. Efforts are being made to make it a success. It is a failure, the only way to fight them is to stick together. Then you'll find we're behind you and so is the government of the United States."

A shortage of available house timber, which had been represented as plentiful when the colonization was undertaken, is causing project authorities to plan the possibilities of constructing some frame houses.

This was revealed by Irwin, when members of the colony council fell to discussing their homes. Irwin said that Frank U. Bliss, construction chief, wanted to know the sentiment of colonists about frame houses, since it might be necessary to resort to them.

The timber situation is just another instance of mismanagement somewhere along the line. Workers have been here since May 1 and not one permanent building anywhere is nearly constructed. In fact not one settler's cabin has been actually started.

The problem to be confronted in construction of cottages alone was indicated this week when 20 colonists finally got a portable sawmill in operation. The experienced sawyers estimated it would take the machine 64 hours to square logs on three sides for just one house. Thus, if the mill operated 14 hours daily without a single breakdown, it would take 92 days to square all house timbers in that group. There is one more mill available and authorities hope to rent another. They have been doing a lot of hoping in vain during the last several days—so milling might be done by July 15.

There is, therefore, little doubt that the colonists will have to throw up their hands together with curing the logs and it is certain that many will not have the pleasant little dwellings they looked forward to when they left the United States.

Sawmill Volunteers.
It is apparent that the difficulties the project finds itself in cannot be blamed on the colonists. To be sure there are dissenters and lazy ones among them, but most of them have done the best they could with what they had. When Irwin called for colonists to run the sawmills three eight-hour shifts daily he was swamped with volunteers.

"Sure we'll do it," they shouted. "It don't make any difference what time of day you sleep here. We want to get things started. Just turn us loose and we'll turn out the work." At least 22 transient laborers have quit the colony in a group because of dissatisfaction with conditions. Four others were fired for intoxication.

This reduced the construction division personnel, whose laborers came from California transient camps, to 400 men just at the time when every man is needed and Director Bliss is calling for more help because he is behind schedule. He has been promised 80 lumberjacks from Washington since June 1.

"All I can say," Bliss said, "is that these men were dissatisfied with life in Alaska and this kind of camp life. Their quitting is not unexpected and we expect more quitting. The reason this came to a head now is that we are just starting to crack down on the work schedule and they didn't like it."

Cause of Withdrawals.
The men said they quit because of mismanagement. They said they signed up in California for one kind of work and have been doing other kinds here.

"I'm a carpenter," one said, "and I've been cutting more bacon than I ever saw in my life. They had me working in the kitchen." Another explained he had signed as a steel checker and that there was nothing but wood to work with in Alaska. Others said they were made to work on the sawmills.

FEDERAL COURT AIDS 2 FOES OF HUEY LONG

Proceeding Removed From Jurisdiction of State Civil and Criminal Tribunals.

NEW ORLEANS, June 17.—(AP)—Two of Senator Huey P. Long's bitter political foes, faced with state court litigation instituted by Long's Louisiana administration, turned to the federal court here today in an effort to remove the proceedings from the jurisdiction of state civil and criminal tribunals.

The legal maneuvering of the anti-Long was, temporarily at least, successful, as federal court writs were issued in both instances staying further action in the state courts.

While entirely unrelated the two cases, that of the state against Colonel John P. Sullivan, dispenser of the national administration's Louisiana patronage and arch Long foe, and that of the state attorney-general against New Orleans sewerage and water boards, were called simultaneously in different divisions of Orleans parish district court.

Colonel Sullivan was scheduled to be arraigned before Special District Judge Mark C. Pickrel on charges filed June 10 of "operating a confidence game" in connection with alleged real estate transactions of a firm headed by Sullivan.

When the hour for arraignment arrived, Colonel Sullivan was not present in the courtroom and Judge Pickrel ordered an attachment issued for him. However, before deputy sheriffs could locate the colonel his attorneys had obtained a federal court writ ordering "removal of Colonel Sullivan's body" to federal custody, thus staying further state court action in the case pending a hearing on an application to transfer the matter to federal district court.

Colonel Sullivan then was taken into custody by United States Marshal Sidney Freudenstein and was admitted to bail by Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah, who filed November 18 as the date for hearing on the removal petition. Colonel Sullivan's federal court bond was fixed at $2,500 on each of three counts, the same as had been required by the state court.

NRA BENEFITS CITED IN WATKINS' SPEECH
Atlanta Attorney Heard by Grocers in Indianapolis Meeting.

The principles and benefits obtained by wholesale and retail grocers under the NRA are vital to the welfare of the industry and should be perpetuated in whatever legal form is possible, Edgar Watkins, Atlanta attorney, yesterday told the National American Wholesale Grocers' Association and the National Retail Grocers' Association conventions in Indianapolis, Ind.

Reviewing legislation affecting the industry, he said "whatever may be your views as to the undesirability of legislative restriction, you are, without that restriction, subjected to another kind of restriction—the restriction of consolidated power."

Mr. Watkins warned against bills now pending in congress, designed to protect the industry, but drawn without regard to the recent supreme court verdict.

He also outlined association interests in the laws relating to railroad loss and damage claims, the meat packers' consent decree, federal regulation of motor vehicles and emergency rates on canned foods.

NEW TIRE DEVELOPED FOR HALF-TON TRUCKS

Goodyear Creates Special Low-Pressure Tires for Chevrolet Machines.

The U. S. Royal Fleetway "15," a new and different type of low-pressure tire which provides greater cushioning for light trucks, has been developed by U. S. Rubber Products, Inc., for use on Chevrolet half-ton trucks.

"The Fleetway '15' represents an important contribution to automotive progress," said H. G. Noss, manager truck and bus tire department, U. S. Rubber Products, Inc. "Truck manufacturers for some time have realized the desirability of greater cushioning on the half-ton truck to make this type of vehicle more attractive to operators carrying fragile merchandise, or who, for many reasons, need this feature. The most logical way to provide cushioning is through the use of a low pressure tire."

Heretofore a number of low pressure tires have been marketed with indifferent success. One of the principal reasons for this lack of success was because the tires were not specifically engineered for a particular vehicle, but were designed to cover a wide range of vehicles and were sold principally as change-over equipment.

Some time ago the truck sales department of Chevrolet Motor Company made a survey of the light truck tire field and concluded the so-called low pressure tire had merit provided that tire could be engineered for the Chevrolet half-ton truck.

"Chevrolet wanted an honest-to-goodness low pressure tire, one that would operate at 15 pounds pressure. This new tire had to be better than any then available, and had to be specifically designed for commercial service. We undertook to develop the tire. The result is the U. S. Royal Fleetway '15,' an entirely new type of tire, which has none of the drawbacks of the old-type super-balloon or doughnut tire, but does have better performance characteristics."

Special features of the new Fleetway "15" are: It is designed to fit a 15x5.50-F, standard rim and on this rim it measures 7.00 inches in width. It has a six-ply carcass designed for commercial service. A special tube of Royal quality, with air venting features and rubber valve stem, is being made for this new tire. The load-carrying capacity is from 960 to 1,400 pounds and corresponding inflation pressures are from 14 to 25 pounds, as compared with the 850 to 955 pounds carrying capacity of the 5.50-17 four-ply tire.

The Fleetway "15" offers 20 per cent more cushioning ability. It is easier on the load, the driver and itself; it brakes quickly and safely—resists any tendency to sideways on curves and turns. The wide road contact area and the deep cogwheel traction tread design make for longer wearing, non-skid safety. The large section and low pressure give far greater support to the vehicle when operating in mud, sand and snow.

The Chevrolet special half-ton commercial car will be equipped with five wheels and five tires at the factory; the regular half-ton commercial car will be equipped with five wheels and four tires.

The Fleetway "15" has also been approved for change-over on the 1932, 1933 and 1934 Chevrolet half-ton commercial cars.

"MEASURING ROD"

British Navy May Be Used to Regulate Size of Others.

LONDON, June 17.—(AP)—A move to make the British navy the permanent "measuring rod" for all the principal navies of the world was seen in diplomatic quarters today as a result of the disclosure Germany has agreed to permit the regulation of the size of her navy by Great Britain.

From reliable sources it was learned that Britain alone will set the pace for Anglo-German naval construction on a 100-35 ratio agreement.

Details of the agreement were not divulged by the Anglo-German naval delegates, who met at the admiralty during the forenoon to continue drafting a pact; but members of the delegations confirmed reports of a pre-arranged agreement under which the German navy will be maintained at a ratio of 35 per cent of the British tonnage.

MARKETING PACTS AID PEANUT RECEIPTS

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—The farm administration said today its marketing agreements for the 1933-34 peanut crop increased growers' receipts at least 30 per cent. Crop payments this season are expected to exceed $35,000,000.

The bureau of agricultural economics estimated 325,000 peanut growers in the United States will have a crop of 1,071,000,000 pounds to be harvested—14 per cent larger than 1933 and 4 per cent less than 1931 when prices averaged about half of those of the current season. The bureau compared the estimated $35,000,000 crop of this year with $23,000,000 for 1933 crop and $18,000,000 for 1932.

Under the AAA, the report said, the 1934 peanut crop maintained above 800 a ton for Spanish and Virginia-type nuts, and above $50 a ton for runners.

"In addition, producers who sign and carry out agreements to adjust 1935 peanut acreage will receive benefit payments," the report said, the amount of payment under each contract to be measured by the quantity of peanuts harvested in 1934. The rate will be $8 per ton, with a minimum payment in all cases of $2 for each acre of the acreage allotted for 1935.

The administration estimated payments to growers will total more than $5,000,000. A processing tax is levied on the first domestic processing of peanuts.

COMPANION MEASURE OF NRA IS ASSAILED

Manufacturers' Counsel Declares New Plan Is Unconstitutional.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—Amid unbroken reports of more permanent legislation, the new and temporary NRA set quietly about its much-restricted duties today while a companion measure for continuing code standards in the performance of government contracts was assailed by organized business.

John C. Gall, associate counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers, contended before the senate labor committee that an unconstitutional delegation of congressional power was involved in the measure advocated by President Roosevelt which would force an employer with a government contract to put all his workers on standards laid down by the chief executive.

"It would not represent a congressional determination of minimum wages and maximum hours to be observed in the performance of government contracts," he said, "but would represent a delegation of blanket authority to the president to determine in every instance what minimum wages and maximum hours the contractors should be required to observe."

The navy also objected, with procurement officials telling the committee the legislation might "interfere with a continuous flow of materials" for the fleet and occasion "serious delay" in getting under way 24 new warships.

Captain J. C. Jawne, of the navy bureau of construction and repair, and Captain E. H. Van Patten, navy purchasing officer, were the witnesses. Previously, Stanley Reed, solicitor general, had assured the committee the measure was flexible and necessarily must be so because it would be "impossible to impose the same requirement on each government contract."

NRA disrupted, we consider the coming meeting timely."

R. B. Wilby visions the meeting as "ironing out difficulties face to face," and adds: "There is too much criticism being bandied about, which we think will disappear when parties to the controversy meet personally."

Miller Urges Reduction of Tariff, Campaign To Save Processing Tax

Secretary of Foreign Policy Association Tells International Relations Group Here Southern Agriculture on Verge of Winning 100-Year Struggle.

The time has come for a south-wide campaign to save the processing taxes and a crusade for tariff reduction in return for processing tax reduction, Francis P. Miller, of Virginia, secretary of the Foreign Policy Association, told the Southern Institute of International Relations last night.

The institute will close with an address tonight by the Rev. Nat G. Loug, of the Glenn Memorial church, on the subject, "Religion Renounces War." The meeting will be held at 8:30 o'clock at St. Luke's church.

Mr. Miller last night said that "the 100-year-old struggle of the agricultural south for a balanced economy with American industry is at last on the verge of being won, provided the farmers of the south capitalize the advantages which they have gained under the AAA programs of the New Deal."

"Selling in World Market." "Until two years ago," he said, "we were in exactly the same dilemma we had been in for a century and more. We were selling our cotton and tobacco in the unprotected world market and we were buying our manufactured goods in a highly protected domestic market."

"The results," he continued, "of 75 years of exploitation of the southern farmer are perfectly obvious. The standard of living of the entire community in the deep south is only about as high as the standard in the middle Atlantic states, and among the couple of million people who belong to the families of the white sharecroppers there is the lowest standard of living known to any men of the western European stock."

Processing Tax an Aid. "The subcommittee, meantime, heard Judge Henry Warrum, counsel for the United Mine Workers, expressed confidence its constitutionality would be upheld. The subcommittee, meantime, heard Judge Henry Warrum, counsel for the United Mine Workers, expressed confidence its constitutionality would be upheld."

Mr. Miller said that "the crop control program of the AAA is an effort to deal with the situation. The processing tax gives the farmer advantages which the tariff gave the industrialist. The farmer is absolutely right in insisting that he will only surrender the processing tax when the manufacturer surrenders the tariff."

"The bargaining power given the farmer by the processing tax means that the farmers of the south have never been in such a favorable position to force a reduction in tariffs."

"Neither Calhoun, by his statesmanship, nor the Civil War by force that the bill would be found in accord with the nation's basic law. A West Virginia federal judge held 10 years ago, he said, that the mine union was conspiring to violate the Sherman anti-trust law and interfere with the free movement of interstate commerce when its officers called a strike. The supreme court refused to review the decision after a circuit court of appeals upheld it.

FARM ENGINEERS OPEN CONVENTION AT ATHENS

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Wilson To Address Body Today.

ATHENS, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—The need of adequate training for men who are to carry out the national programs of soil erosion control, rural electrification and housing was emphasized today at the opening session of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

More than 40 states are represented at the convention, which is being held in the south for the first time since the group was organized.

In one of the principal addresses today M. L. Nichols, professor of agricultural engineering at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, urged the development of a systematic plan whereby counties may have the services of a trained man to devote his full time to the problems of erosion control, forest fire prevention and conservation of other natural resources.

The erosion control work which is now under way in many counties in the south is to be regarded as one of the most important projects ever undertaken in this country, he said.

Efforts of the AAA toward raising the income of farmers have prompted the development of a number of engineering projects, said S. P. Lyle, extension engineer of the United States Department of Agriculture.

He predicted an expanding field for men trained in farm mechanics and related subjects.

Other speakers were L. J. Fletcher, sales manager of a tractor company, who urged a revision of college curricula to meet new conditions of industry and agriculture; and Dr. J. T. Wheeler, of the University of Georgia, who spoke on "engineered education."

Nearly 50 men are scheduled to address the general meetings and division meetings. Among them are: Assistant Secretary of Agriculture M. L. Wilson, Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the United States soil conservation service, and R. L. Vassant, Georgia director of rural rehabilitation.

Two organized tours have been planned for the delegates. One will take them to the rural industrial community at Pine Mountain, Ga., the cotton mills at LaGrange, and a United States Department of Agriculture tillage machinery laboratory at Auburn, Ala.

The second trip will be through north Georgia and Tennessee mountains to Norris dam and other TVA points.

Wilson is scheduled to speak tomorrow on "Agricultural Engineering and Economic Democracy in Agriculture," and Bennett, Wednesday, on "Attacking Soil Erosion on a Nation-Wide Front."

CHURCH AT RINGGOLD IS PLANNED AS SHRINE

RINGGOLD, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Announcement is made here that the famous Old Stone church, two miles south of Ringgold, is to be converted into a historical museum and shrine in memory of its founders and former members.

This edifice was erected in 1850 by the members of the Chickasawga Presbyterian church, which was organized in 1837, by a band of Scotch-Irish pioneers who had settled in what was then Cherokee Indian country in north-west Georgia. For 70 years it was used as a Presbyterian church, and then on account of depletion of its congregation by deaths and removals, the membership was transferred to the Ringgold church and the building sold to the Methodists.

Recently this congregation decided to sell the building and a movement was started among the descendants of the former members to buy it for the purpose of commemorating its early members by converting it into a shrine and historical museum.

Lynn Magill, of Ringgold, a grandson of one of the charter members of the church, is acting as trustee and treasurer of the fund being raised for the undertaking.

STATE PEACH CROP IS CUT BY DROUGHT

Estimate of Georgia Shipments Reduced by 1,300 Carloads.

MACON, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Revising its pre-season estimate, the Georgia Peach Growers' Exchange predicted today that about 2,000 carloads of Hiley Belle peaches should move from Georgia this year.

The Hiley Belles, which with Elbertas are Georgia's most abundant varieties, are expected to be ready for shipment this week.

Earlier estimates had placed the crop at 2,650 cars, but exchange officials after a late survey set the figure lower because "Hiley Belles, with few exceptions, are not sizing up well, due to the drought which has prevailed in most of the important producing areas of the state."

Last week's rains, they said, came too late to help the crop of Hileys, but should help the Elbertas.

The Exchange also estimated that the total crop for the year will be probably only 9,000 cars instead of the 10,300 originally expected, drought was given as the cause for the reduction.

'Liberty Hall,' Home of Stephens, Fully Restored at Crawfordville

Residence of Noted Georgian and Vice President of Confederacy Reconditioned as 172 Acres of Land Are Added to Tract.

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Liberty Hall, home of Alexander H. Stephens, vice president of the Confederacy, has been fully restored. The 12-room house itself, the outbuildings, the garden and the fences have been reconstructed as they were in the days Stephens occupied the home. All that remains to be done is to furnish the home.

Mrs. Horace M. Holden, of Atlanta, a grand-niece of the Georgia statesman and her husband, Judge Holden, are given most of the credit for the progress that has been made. They have been working about 25 years to have the place restored.

Assistance in the project has been given by the Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the state and the federal government, the Stephens Monumental Association, the county of Taliaferro and the town of Crawfordville.

First the association, which owned the hall and the lot on which it stood, decided them to the state. Then the

FITZGERALD PLANS 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Founding of Colony in 1895 To Be Observed in South Georgia.

FITZGERALD, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Citizens of Ben Hill, Wilcox and Irwin counties are planning a celebration of the 40th anniversary of the founding of Fitzgerald colony.

In 1895 and succeeding years, hundreds of northern families came from poor and drought-stricken farms to found the colony, building the city of Fitzgerald and settling in surrounding territory.

At a meeting, recently held in Abbeville, officials and residents of the counties discussed the prospective celebration and decided to make as a feature of it a drive to have the government send farm families from the north and middle west to live in this territory.

Several of the original colonizers, among whom were many Union soldiers, still live in Fitzgerald.

CARDENAS ORGANIZES FRIENDLY CABINET

Calles Beaten, Retreats to Let President Continue Work Unhindered.

MEXICO, D. F., June 17.—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas tonight formed a new cabinet to take the place of that forced to resign last Friday after his political dispute with Plutarco Elias Calles reached its peak.

The cabinet follows:
Interior, Silvano Barba Gonzalez; foreign affairs, Fernando Gonzalez Ros; finance, Eduardo R. Suarez; war, General Andres Figueroa; agriculture, General Saturnino Cedillo; national economy, Rafael Sanchez Tapia; communications, General Francisco Mujica; education, Gonzalo Vazquez Vela.

Calles, "iron man" and political dictator of Mexico, bowed out of the government picture, leaving Cardenas to continue his leftist program unhindered.

Calles will depart tomorrow for the north, he said, leaving "all responsibility for public affairs to those who have it in their hands."

He and Cardenas had conflicted over the latter's economic program. Thus the 40-year-old Calles, who is part Indian, rose to complete domination of the Mexican scene. A general and veteran of the revolution, Cardenas was governor of the state of Michoacan where he became president last year.

CARDENAS ASKS ROTARIANS TO UNDERSTAND MEXICO
MEXICO, D. F., June 17.—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas opened the 26th convention of Rotary International late today with a brief speech in which he asked the delegates to understand Mexico.

Three thousand visitors crowded the auditorium of the Palace of Fine Arts to hear the president discuss the economic and political conditions of the country.

Delegates applauded the president's speech, which was translated into English. The reply was made by Robert H. Hill, of Columbia Mo., president of Rotary International.

HOPKINS TO HEAR SHEPPERSON PLEA ON FULTON RELIEF

varies so much from our original agreement with Miss Shepperdon that chaos would result if we accepted it, and for that reason I took the responsibility of rejecting it and turning the new unemployment back to the FERA," the chairman said.

"Miss Louise Fitzsimmons, the assistant administrator, communicated with me this morning and asked me to submit our proposal in writing direct to Miss Shepperdon in Washington. She informed me Miss Shepperdon would confer with Mr. Hopkins Tuesday morning and attempt to solve the problem."

Tied Up in Red Tape.
In his letter to Miss Shepperdon, the welfare board head stated the $15,000 was surrounded by such technical details it could not be utilized.

"The proposal of your auditor as to the administration of the $15,000 cash is surrounded by technical details, expensive administration and will prevent the use of these funds for the main purpose that we had in mind, namely, allocating them over a sufficient period to enable us to complete the tapering off process," the letter read.

"Therefore, it is my opinion that any plan which fails to accomplish the objectives stated will only result in added confusion and had better be rejected at the outset."
Frank Miller, executive director of the welfare board, announced that Hapeville and East Point city councils have passed resolutions authorizing the payment of $15,000 out of the cost of maintaining unemployed workers in those communities. College Park is expected to follow suit, he said.

Discussing the situation, Mr. Harrington said the welfare board would not accept any of the 10,000 unemployed workers and their dependents should apply to the FERA for assistance.

John Dams, of 565 Boulevard N. E., yesterday told police a negro employee of his gipped him of $12. He gave the negro $3 for change, passed and later the boy said he needed $10 more to make correct change for a woman customer. He took the money and disappeared. Dams said.

In another case reported to police, W. W. Gross, manager of a drugstore at 1434 Peachtree street, told officers his delivery boy, George Stovall, had disappeared with the store's weekly receipts which he was taking to the main office of the company. Several hundred dollars in checks and $35 in cash were in a bag chained and locked around his waist. Gross said the negro was a trusted employee and he told police he thought the boy had been robbed.

Erkhart and Walters were crushed and smothered to death.

FISH CHARGES F. D. R. WITH CUTTING EXPENDITURES

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(UP)—Representative Hamilton Fish, Republican, New York, tonight advocated the McNary-Hansen amendment proposed by President Coolidge in 1928, to save the United States "constantly diminishing world markets."

Immediate action is necessary, Fish said in a radio talk, to prevent that "Rosevelt-Hall-Wallace-Tugwell policy" from dissipating all the foreign markets for surplus American farm products.

Emory Debaters, Back Home Again, Tell of Forensic Wars in Europe

By ROBERT WIGGINS.
After two and a half months' absence, two members of the Emory debating team were happy to step from a railroad train at Emory University Monday afternoon and hand Professor Nolan A. Goodrich, debating coach, a leg of lamb brought back from England in lieu of the celebrated American bacon.

Their last debate was held in Paris on June 7, the night before they sailed on the Bremen, with representatives of the Ecole Libre des Sciences Politiques. The subject was "Resolved: That the press has proven detrimental to democratic government." John A. Griffin and I defended the press, taking the negative side.

It was a most unusual debate. Not only was it interesting because we were the first Americans to debate in this famous school of political science—it was most amusing, for the other side was quite sure what we were talking about, so different are the newspaper organizations in the two different countries.

We cited the history of the American press associations, pointing out the fact that they dispensed impartial, authentic news. We said that the growth of democracy had been retarded with the growth of the public press, declaring that the basis of democracy is in informed public opinion, which can only be brought about through the medium of the press.

Text of F. D. R. Plea On Relief Spending

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's remarks to state work relief administrators gathered in his office, as issued by the White House, follows:

We are all engaged in a common task and I think we can be quite informal in talking about it. There are only one or two points I want to mention. The first, of course, relates to the broad objective, what might be called the main objective of the program we are engaged in. And it does not require very difficult arithmetic for the average layman to understand it.

We have to divide three and a half million men into four billion dollars. Almost anyone can understand that. In other words, congress has given us four billion dollars. The objective is to put three and a half million men to work during the coming fiscal year.

That means a great many heartaches for people who are not heartless. They might just as well recognize that. You are going to have a great many difficulties and heartburnings because you will have to turn down a lot of splendid projects all over the United States. I assure you, however, that you are not going to have any more difficulty than I am having in a ready from people all over the country who have projects that are very worthy—projects that just do not fall within the arithmetic of the situation.

SAID MUST SAY "NO" TO MANY REQUESTS

Therefore, I feel it is incumbent on us not only to explain the reasons for the projects but also to explain it to the people as a whole, in every state of the country, so that they will understand why it is that they will be asked to say "no" to requests that do not fall within the arithmetic.

In other words, outside of a handful of other projects such as the Bonneville and the Fort Peck dams; the deepening of the Mississippi and the channel in the upper Missouri, and a few others of that kind which total only a very small portion of the four billion dollars, practically all the rest of the money must be allocated on the basis of the rate of unemployment, at the rate of $1,100 and $1,200 dollars per man, which must be necessary to include everything that is not only the men themselves but also the amount that the materials cost as well as the overhead costs. Translated in another way, that means that given "X" state that means the number of people on the relief rolls and we call that "Y." Then we make a quota allocation. That quota we practically divide into three factors: "X," the number of people on the relief rolls, "Y," the number of people on the relief rolls, and "Z," the amount of money we can spend on them.

Just before the President addressed the state directors, he received from the Works Administration Board recommendations for $42,610,537 in projects. Details were withheld pending presidential approval. The board said projects previously approved on a 30 per cent grant basis were revised to provide for 45 per cent grants with the balance "in many cases" to be obtained from private sources.

Said To Resemble CWA.
Just after the White House conference, Willard Chrysler, a member of the Advisory Council—Construction League, said in a statement the limitation on expenditures per man would be "practically" the same as that of the Civil Works Administration and that was written off as a waste of time.

In an earlier meeting with the state directors, Hopkins warned the next six months would "make or break" the program.

As the President talked, Hopkins' assistants disclosed that the amount of federal funds to be available for each state would not be made public. They said rough estimates only, based on the $19 to $24 a month wage scale and with approximately the same allowances for materials and overhead had been prepared.

Relief Drop Shown.
As Hopkins and his state assistants opened a three-day conference the relief situation was reported as a decline in the city relief population in the April-May period which Hopkins attributed mainly to "improved business conditions and to seasonal increases in agricultural employment."

The number of families and single persons on relief in 145 cities, representing 36 per cent of the population, were reported to have dropped from 2,163,966 in April to 2,127,006 in May, and expenditures from $69,810,653 to $68,183,784. Exclusive of Chicago, however, where the cost of relief was greatly reduced because Illinois relief expenditures increased 3 per cent.

In his talk to the state work officials, Hopkins predicted the administration would be charged with "buying the election and playing politics," but added that he had no state director who had asked for the job.

"See that the job is done in the finest possible way, make as few mistakes as possible," Hopkins said as he acknowledged that "the responsibility doesn't rest lightly on my shoulders."

Methods of purchasing materials, some of which will be bought by a central agency, were outlined by Rear Admiral C. J. Peoples, treasury procurement officer, Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director, reviewed ways of keeping books in the huge relief outlay.

Roads Ruled Out?
The limitation on the average amount to be spent per man on relief projects brought an objection tonight from William P. McDonald, president of the American Road Builders' Association.

"According to the ruling for every $1,400 expended, one man is to be furnished work on the job for one year," McDonald said, "and this figure must also include all necessary construction materials, equipment and transportation for the same period. The figure is insufficient to provide for the construction of anything but low cost improvement."

DISCRIMINATION MUST BE KEPT OUT.
The second point I make is that we have to be extremely careful not to make any kind of discrimination. We cannot discriminate on the basis of race or religion or politics. Politics, so far as we are concerned, is out. If anybody asks you to discriminate because of politics you can tell them that the President of the United States gave direct orders that there is not to be any such discrimination.

That applies both ways. It means we cannot hurt our enemies nor help our friends. We have to and will treat them all exactly alike. In carrying out this work, consider it purely and solely from a human point of view. Do everything you can to prevent the use of political considerations or one way or the other.

Finally, in regard to the projects themselves, we want them to be as useful as we can make them. We have seen the work that has been done in a very great hurry in the late fall and winter of 1933-1934. Of course, a lot of that was thrown together in a very great hurry. It was invented by a lot of great many municipalities and counties had only a week or two weeks to decide what they had to do. They did the best they could. The extraordinary thing

WIRELESS POWER, CHEMIST'S CLAIM

Dr. A. F. Cullen's Invention Pulls Motor, Makes Light, Runs Radio.

If the claims of its inventor are reasonably accurate, a machine which was demonstrated in Atlanta last night will make all this legal battling over the TVA nothing but futile endeavor or, if you prefer, love's labor lost.

Dr. A. Francis Cullen, Atlanta chemist, has invented, he states, a new tube that creates electrical power from the short waves in the ether.

The demonstration last night was staged in an office in the Williams-Oliver building and the power generated was used to light the room from one small bulb. Witnesses said the room was brilliantly lit yet without glare.

Not omitting technical details, it is sufficient to state the inventor claims his apparatus will generate enough power from the short waves to run your radio, light your house, cook your food, run your washing machine, sewing machine, electric iron, electric fan, refrigerator or any other odd jobs.

It also was stated last night that the invention will be on the market with 30 days, backed by an Atlanta corporation known as the Ray-O-Lite & Chemical Corporation. Officers are given as Emory L. Brooks, president; J. L. Galt, vice president; Dr. Cullen, chief chemist; and Thomas L. Slattery, legal adviser. There is, however, no stock in the corporation for sale.

I am all for this: I think it is a very important project on a very important river in the United States. It is going to prevent floods, so forth, but, in order to do it, I would have to increase the allotment to your particular state by $10 million dollars. Are you willing to ask me to take ten or fifteen million dollars away from the other 47 states of the Union and give it to your state? They said: "No, we are not willing to do it."

MATTER OF ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL.
That is a very simple to people would ask you in your several states to exceed the allotment in the other 47 states of the Union and give it to your state? They said: "No, we are not willing to do it."

POSTAL EXECUTIVE SAYS BUSINESS UP

Vice-President Daviet Addresses Hundred Company Officials Here.

Southern business conditions have shown considerable increase in the last two years, W. C. Daviet, vice president of the Postal Telegraph & Cable Company, told nearly 100 officials of the company last night at a meeting at the Hotel Hamilton.

Mr. Daviet was formerly an officer of the company here from 1907 to 1912 and from 1916 to 1917. He resides in New York and is touring the country for conferences with his executives.

"Recent reorganization proceedings of the Postal Telegraph Cable Corporation, the holding company of Postal, has not affected our operations. We have not taken any steps toward a merger in connection with his company."

Attending the meeting were D. E. Chapman, general manager, of Atlanta; F. A. Ballinger, general sales manager, of the company's New York office; O. Young, of Charlotte; E. C. J. D. D. of Atlanta; W. C. Lloyd, of Birmingham; and L. H. Jacobs, of New Orleans, and city and branch managers from southern states, together with a number of Atlanta employees.

ORDERS, SHIPMENTS OFF IN LUMBER INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association today reported that orders as reported by 832 lumber mills for the week ended June 8, dropped 21 per cent as compared with the previous week.

The report also showed a decline of 10 per cent in shipments and an increase of 7 per cent in production by the same comparison.

The association said total production showed little change from that of the corresponding week of 1934, while shipments were 16 per cent and new business 20 per cent above that period.

Production for the week was given at 140,973,000 feet, shipments 143

LONG TERMS IMPOSED ON CONFESSION BANDITS

Woman Among Four Who Confessed and Drew Heavy Prison Sentences.

Four white bandits, including one woman, were given heavy sentences yesterday in Fulton superior court. Aleck Jones, 18, was given 17 to 20 years and his wife, Leola, 8 to 12 years, on pleas of guilty to a series of robberies, including the attempted holdup of Dukey Cowles, Atlanta businessman, who failed the attempt and shot and wounded Claude Carmichael. Jones was not able to appear in court and his case was continued.

William Ross pleaded guilty to seven counts of robbery and was given sentences totaling 25 years. Jones and his wife admitted ride and rob offenses in which J. H. Smith, of Fruit Growers Express; J. M. South, a taxicab driver, and D. S. Capos, of Norcross, were victims. Jones also admitted taking part in the attempted holdup of Cowles.

Ross was captured several weeks ago after a gun battle chase with county policemen and was wounded. He admitted the robbery of Coursey's Pharmacy, in which several customers were lined up and relieved of their valuables and the robbery of the Human Park Pharmacy.

In pronouncing sentence on Jones and his wife Judge G. H. Howard said he realized the court's action would mean little and pictured a scene in the prison commission's office when the couple apply for parole later. He commended Cowles for his courageous action in resisting the bandits, expressing the opinion the state would be much better off if more bandits were given similar treatment.

"If you do not serve the sentences I have given you," he said, "I will have the satisfaction of knowing it is the fault of the prison commission—not mine."

A fourth bandit, James A. Brown, was given two to six years on a plea of guilty to a robbery. He took part in the attempted holdup of Mrs. Fred Walker, concessionaire at Base Hospital No. 48. The sentence is to follow a six-to-ten year sentence already imposed for robberies of Wall Dry Cleaning Company and Cox Carlton hotel.

2 KILLED, 5 HURT IN ROAD ACCIDENT

Atlantans Involved in Mishap Causing Death of Two Youths.

Five Atlantans were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding overturned after striking two youths, believed to have been sleeping in the road, half a mile east of Pell City, Ala., early yesterday. The youths were dead when picked up.

Friends here said last night that Mrs. H. C. Baisden, of 680 Juniper street, at first reported seriously injured, had been allowed to return to Atlanta with her husband, H. C. "Bert" Baisden, well-known local motorcycle rider, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Caldwell and George Gunn, other occupants of the automobile. It is understood that Mrs. Baisden received head injuries. Mrs. Caldwell was said to have received a broken collarbone.

The Associated Press reported that the car, driven by Baisden, went into a skid and overturned after striking the youths, James Tucker, 20, and Edmond Taylor, 18, of the Moody's Crossing neighborhood, near Pell City. The Baisden party was returning from Birmingham, Ala., where Bert Baisden had won the 45-cubic-inch class "B" motorcycle hill-climbing race held there Sunday, according to friends here.

Opening of a new market for building materials, machinery and equipment looms as the result of the extension of the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration to permit insuring of loans up to $50,000, according to John W. Millsaps, regional FHA director.

Under the new program insured loans up to $50,000 will be made for additions, alterations, repairs and improvement of "real property improved by or to be converted into apartments or multiple-family houses, hotels, office, business or other commercial buildings, hospitals, orphanages, colleges, schools, manufacturing or industrial plants."

All charges, including interest, are to be determined by the financial institution and the applicant for credit. Under no circumstances can the interest, together with all other charges, exceed the equivalent of $5 discount per $100 original face amount of a one-year note to be paid in equal monthly installments, Mr. Millsaps said.

HEARING ON REPEAL IS SET WEDNESDAY

Arguments Will Be Presented Before State Supreme Court.

The state supreme court Wednesday will hear arguments on the appealed mandamus action of William G. Hastings to declare the recent repeal vote in Georgia a victory for the wet forces.

Hastings contends that Secretary of State John B. Wilson erred when he permitted the vote of two counties, allegedly late in reporting, to be counted. If the votes of these counties were not counted the repealists would have had a slight majority.

The high court yesterday heard arguments on the appeal of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin seeking to overrule the decision of the court of appeals which threw out a $1,000 libel suit verdict he won in the old Atlanta city court from William G. McRae, his opponent for reelection in 1932. The libel suit grew out of the 1932 campaign. Attorney Marion Smith argued the appeal for Boykin yesterday, while Attorney George Finch represented McRae.

"GOOD TIMES" BACK

Masons To Revive Fish Fry, Abandoned Years Ago.

Another harbinger of good times: A fish fry will be given July 4 by the Grant Park Lodge No. 604, F. & A. M., reviving a custom abandoned five years ago because of the depression. The festivities will be held at Grant Park on the concrete pavilion from 10 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night. The net proceeds of the admission will be applied to the Grant Park Masonic temple fund.

Invitations have been issued to all Masonic lodges within 50 miles of Atlanta and the committee reports an unusually heavy advance registration.

GARNER IS PROMOTED BY REAL ESTATE FIRM

Announcement of the appointment of Judson M. Garner as manager of the real estate sales department of Haas, Howell & Dodd, Atlanta insurance and real estate concern, was made yesterday by the company. Mr. Garner, as secretary of the firm, has for a number of years been closely identified with the city's real estate market.

GOVERNOR TO MAKE 2 SPEECHES IN FALL

Talmadge Will Address Groups in Des Moines and New York.

Returning to his offices at the capitol after an absence of a week, Governor Talmadge announced yesterday that he had accepted invitations to speak in Des Moines September 19 and in New York October 8. The Des Moines speech will be before a farmers' meeting while the New York address will be before the Board of Trade of that city.

The governor spoke last week before the Chicago Association of Commerce and the governors' conference at Biloxi, Miss.

He said yesterday that he had received numerous invitations to make speeches in all sections of the country but the Des Moines and New York engagements were the only ones he could accept.

The governor's next public appearance will be at a Talmadge rally at Canton July 4.

Friends here said last night that Mrs. H. C. Baisden, of 680 Juniper street, at first reported seriously injured, had been allowed to return to Atlanta with her husband, H. C. "Bert" Baisden, well-known local motorcycle rider, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Caldwell and George Gunn, other occupants of the automobile. It is understood that Mrs. Baisden received head injuries. Mrs. Caldwell was said to have received a broken collarbone.

The Associated Press reported that the car, driven by Baisden, went into a skid and overturned after striking the youths, James Tucker, 20, and Edmond Taylor, 18, of the Moody's Crossing neighborhood, near Pell City. The Baisden party was returning from Birmingham, Ala., where Bert Baisden had won the 45-cubic-inch class "B" motorcycle hill-climbing race held there Sunday, according to friends here.

Opening of a new market for building materials, machinery and equipment looms as the result of the extension of the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration to permit insuring of loans up to $50,000, according to John W. Millsaps, regional FHA director.

Under the new program insured loans up to $50,000 will be made for additions, alterations, repairs and improvement of "real property improved by or to be converted into apartments or multiple-family houses, hotels, office, business or other commercial buildings, hospitals, orphanages, colleges, schools, manufacturing or industrial plants."

All charges, including interest, are to be determined by the financial institution and the applicant for credit. Under no circumstances can the interest, together with all other charges, exceed the equivalent of $5 discount per $100 original face amount of a one-year note to be paid in equal monthly installments, Mr. Millsaps said.

The state supreme court Wednesday will hear arguments on the appealed mandamus action of William G. Hastings to declare the recent repeal vote in Georgia a victory for the wet forces.

Hastings contends that Secretary of State John B. Wilson erred when he permitted the vote of two counties, allegedly late in reporting, to be counted. If the votes of these counties were not counted the repealists would have had a slight majority.

The high court yesterday heard arguments on the appeal of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin seeking to overrule the decision of the court of appeals which threw out a $1,000 libel suit verdict he won in the old Atlanta city court from William G. McRae, his opponent for reelection in 1932. The libel suit grew out of the 1932 campaign. Attorney Marion Smith argued the appeal for Boykin yesterday, while Attorney George Finch represented McRae.

Invitations have been issued to all Masonic lodges within 50 miles of Atlanta and the committee reports an unusually heavy advance registration.

Atlantan Attends Hollywood Party With Marion Davies as Hostess

By Sally Forth.

PERUSING a Los Angeles newspaper Sally chanced upon the name of Virginia Dabney among the guests attending a dinner party given by the celebrated film star, Marion Davies. The dinner was given in compliment to Colonel Henry L. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, and his aides, Colonel W. R. Munroe, of the navy, and Major John W. Thomason Jr., of the marines. The list of guests included members of nobility and leading figures of the film world.

Sally recalls Virginia Dabney as the beautiful blonde daughter of Mrs. Oscar Dabney and the late Mr. Dabney, of Atlanta. It was only a few years ago since youthful Virginia was being presented here in dance recitals by her teacher, the late Mrs. W. C. Spiker. It was this well-known Atlanta teacher who taught Virginia her first dance steps. Soon after she started studying with Mrs. Spiker her friends and teacher predicted for her a successful career in the artistic profession. And now Virginia is considered one of the silver screen's most talented artists. She and her sister, Marion, who is also a prominent figure in film circles, reside in a fashionable section of Hollywood's film colony. Their mother, Mrs. Oscar Dabney, makes her home with them. And like her daughters, she, too, is beloved by leaders of the motion picture industry.

Virginia and Marion, whose brunet beauty is as pronounced as her sister's blonde loveliness, make a striking pair when they appear at the brilliant social functions given by leaders in the nation's film capital. Their charming southern personalities have been unspoiled by their success. They retain those lovable traits of character and that naturalness of manner which have made for them hosts of friends and admirers.

SIXTEEN successive birthday anniversaries have been spent at Atlantic Beach hotel in Florida by Lilly Mae Clarke. When June the thirteenth rolled around this year Lilly Mae found herself the center of lots of occasions that marked the auspicious date.

Toasts were drunk to a long and happy life in champagne cocktails. Florida as you know permits her people and the stranger within her gates the pleasurable privilege of partaking of this best of legal beverages.

A pink and white birthday cake with all its trimmings of pink roses and candles was placed in front of the celebrant. If blowing out all the candles at one time is the sign of good luck, Lilly Mae has oodles of such luck coming to her during the next 12 months. When she played the slot machines, another legal privilege granted people in the land of Flowers, she more than doubled her capital in the winnings. A dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Adams in compliment to the attractive honor guest featured a frozen syllabub as the tempting dessert and a bowl filled with gorgeous pink dahlias formed the centerpiece.

MR. AND MRS. STUART BROEMAN have returned from a sojourn in Jacksonville. They journeyed to Florida to attend the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clifton Morgan. The bride is Mr. Broeman's sister and he gave her in marriage. The ceremony took place at the First Baptist church, and Mrs. Broeman was the matron of honor. She was gowned in flesh-colored lace, wore a pink picture hat trimmed with turquoise, and carried tallismans roses.

The bride wore green lace and her hat matched her costume. She carried white roses and her only ornament was an antique gold wedding chain which has been in her mother's family for 150 years. A reception given at the Windsor hotel by Mr. and Mrs. Broeman for the bride and bridegroom followed the ceremony. Valley lily chains were suspended from the chandeliers, and the reception rooms were adorned with palms, red roses and Easter lilies. A five-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, graced the center of the lace-covered table, and white tapers were used in the candlesticks.

RUTH DODD ANDERSON'S friends are making the most of the opportunity to welcome her upon her first visit since her recent marriage to Harry Anderson, that well-known New Yorker. She expects to spend about 10 days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Dodd, on West Peachtree street. Mr. Anderson will join her here before her visit terminates, and en route to New York they will stop at Virginia Beach.

Ruth was accompanied by her nephew, Forrest Adair III, who will visit his father for several

Prize Winners Are Announced

Reports of the first half-year's activity in operating Cornelia Moore and Osgood Sanders nurseries were made at the June meeting of the Sheltering Arms Association on Thursday with Mrs. William Akers presiding. A special feature was an inspection trip of the Osgood Sanders nursery, which has been redecorated by the several committees under the direction of Mrs. Charles Pottinger, general chairman; Mrs. Clyde Williams, building chairman, and Mrs. Owen Perry, head of the equipment committee. An important addition to the nursery is the new dental clinic which has been equipped by Mrs. Perry's committee for use of the nurseries operated by the Sheltering Arms. The assistance of Dr. M. C. Huff in equipping the clinic and a gift of chairs by Fred Patterson, a junior dental cabinet by P. L. Blackshear, and blinds by Thompson Shade Company were also reported by Mrs. Perry.

A check from the Hevety Furniture Company for the association's recent sponsorship of Sheltering Arms week was presented the nurseries, and first prize, judged by popular vote, was awarded the nursery room decorated by Mesdames Fred Patterson, P. C. McDuffie, Charles Dannels and Alfred Kennedy. The second award went to Mrs. John Duncan's committee for the dining room arranged by Mesdames Frank Alcorn, George Campbell, Charles Hammond and James Budd. The cash awards were used for the purchase of furniture for the reception room at Osgood Sanders and for the purchase of six dozen suits for children attending the nursery. It was announced that the association would continue its sponsorship at Hevety's during June and the model rooms would be displayed throughout the month.

Mrs. Ernest Osborne, grounds chairman, reported improvements made to the children's playground and to the front grounds with the assistance of St. Charles Garden Club. Mrs. Brooks Morgan reported for the Cornelia Moore nursery an average attendance of 79 during May and Mrs. Campbell Krenson reported an attendance of 101 at Osgood Sanders. Increased attendance and overtaxed facilities were reported at both nurseries and a committee was appointed to work out an arrangement to meet these crowded conditions.

Mrs. John Duncan announced that 105 dresses had been made by her committee with the assistance of the Atlanta Opportunity school and other reports were made on the work being done in caring for the 200-odd children registered in the nurseries. Mrs. Coffee, welfare director, stated that typhoid treatments had been given all children and more than 400 treatments in offices and homes had been given during the month with the aid of local doctors. Mrs. Akers announced that work would be continued at the nurseries and committees would continue to function but business meetings would be suspended for the summer and resumed in September.

Iris Garden Club

Is Entertained.

Mrs. Carroll McLaughery entertained the Iris Garden Club at their June meeting at her country home last week. Mrs. Dowell Brown, newly-elected president, presided, and Mrs. Boling Sassnett, retiring president, reported several plants had been planted in the iris garden.

Mrs. Brown told of plans formulated at a recent meeting of all garden club presidents, of which she is chairman, to make Atlanta the dogwood city of the south. Special guests attending the meeting were Miss Mary Motz Wills and Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Cron. Miss Wills is a noted artist, whose paintings of wild flowers is probably the best and largest in the country. She is now completing a collection in Georgia.

Mrs. W. C. Wardlaw announced a rummage sale on June 27, and appointed a committee to assist. Interest was created by Mrs. Eugene Harrington's display of a specimen of "Franklinia Gordonii," a rare plant found growing on her farm by Jean Oliver. It has been vainly sought for years by horticulturists and has been called "the lost rose of Georgia." Following the meeting luncheon was served.

Bird, Flower Club

Plans Bridge Party.

The Bird and Flower Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Alexander Dahl, 1077 Los Angeles avenue, N. E. The living room was decorated with flowers culled from the gardens of the members.

Mrs. C. J. Sheehan, the president, presided. The club voted to affiliate with the Federation of Women's Clubs; endorsed Mayor Key's project for planting and caring for dogwood trees to beautify Atlanta. The club was represented by its first vice president, Mrs. Alexander Dahl, at a meeting called by Mayor Key to the garden clubs to formulate plans for this work.

The program chairman, Mrs. D. Kiser, presented a plan for beautifying a portion of the grounds of the Confederate Home. The idea met with hearty approval.

Mrs. Ellis Terry read a paper on the robin, its origin, habits and appearance. Members were requested by Mrs. Sheehan, the president, to examine the flowers on exhibit, each bearing a number, and vote by these numbers their choice of the finest blossoms.

Mrs. I. V. Horne won the trophy for display of Buddleia. Mrs. Alexander Dahl received the blue ribbon for the artistic arrangement of a silver bowl filled with pink radiant roses and blue hydrangea. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dahl and her co-hostess, Mrs. J. D. Latham.

Not "Acres of Diamonds" But Fields of Them Are Given Here

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

"The way I have worked out this pattern today reminds me of the story of the three bears, a big papa bear, a medium sized mama bear and a little baby bear. For I have used the same design but given you a pattern for a block which measures one inch when needed, another which measures one and one-half inches and a third which is all of two inches.

The smallest is the prettiest, of course, but it is tedious to make. You notice that the design is similar to that popular old favorite, the "bride's bouquet," "Martha Washington bouquet" or "flower garden." But instead of having only six hexagon blocks sewed around the center one we have the color repeated at the two ends. Note that this block is fitted into the indentation, not the straight side of a hexagon.

This gives the elongated diamond which, of course, is placed on the bed so that it follows the long lines of the bed.

In one quilt the centers of all the diamonds were soft yellow. The next eight blocks were of a plain color. Red and harsh orange were not used. This precaution is especially necessary when the larger sized blocks are used. Surrounding the eight blocks of plain color are 16 blocks of a print. This is always a small figured material. The dominant color repeats the plain color which surrounds the center yellow block. Or these blocks may be small figured green prints. Surrounding this are 24 blocks of white. But notice that the blocks marked "A" (shown most plainly in the direction of the arrow) are shared by two pieces of diamonds.

Nancy suggests that you piece all the blocks, omitting the white. Then lay them on the bed to get quite a different effect. In that case you can make the block designated "X" a soft yellow or green and you then have small flowers with six petals of white in between the beautiful colored diamonds. Remember no seams are allowed in the pattern. Be sure to allow one-eighth inch or one-quarter inch for seams.

The actual pattern for "Fields of Diamonds"

With only a singleton of the suit bid by partner, it is sometimes very difficult to play the hand at three notrump. As a rule, expert players try to avoid a notrump contract under this condition, knowing they may not be able to enter the dummy more than once to set up the partner's suit.

Sometimes, however, it becomes necessary, especially when both players hold a singleton of the rebid suit of partner, as in the hand below:

South West North East
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
3♥ Pass 3♠ Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

The bidding:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
3♥ Pass 3♠ Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

West did not like to lead away from a king. He selected the nine of diamonds, which turned out to be a happy choice for the defense. Dummy played low and South won with the ace. Declarer of course was compelled to develop the hearts by straight leads away from his tenaces. The lead of the ace brought out only small cards. A little reflection will show that the second lead was of course the queen. A little reflection will show that the second lead was of course the queen.

With only two adverse honors to contend with, declarer can lose only two heart tricks except against a 5-1 break. The only way in which he can avoid the loss of two tricks is to drop one of the missing honors unguarded. It would do him no good to drop a doubleton king, since the jack would still make. Hence the only situation, after the lead of the ace had felled nothing, in which he can clean up the suit with one loss is to find the club doubleton. For the sake of this possibility the queen is the only correct second lead.

West won the queen of hearts with the king, and discarding a small club. West led the four of diamonds, dummy again ducked, and East's eight-spot forced the king.

Declarer could count eight top tricks. The ninth would have to come by taking advantage of the adverse difficulties of exit. In order to be sure to deprive the opponents of heart exit South cashed two more hearts, dummy discarding two spades. Then declarer led the spade.

If East held off, the spade trick would give declarer contract at once. East counted out the hand and properly with the king with the ace. As the only hope for exit was in clubs, East led the queen of clubs. Note that if East had led small, South would have been forced in the lead with no way to escape giving declarer the game trick.

As it was, South won the queen of clubs with the ace. He cashed another heart, dummy letting a small club. At the last of the small spades, declarer saw that to cash the sixth heart might be fatal, as he might make the wrong discard from dummy. But, having seven tricks already in hand, he immediately led the club six toward the blank ten. If the king went up, the opponents could not avoid letting either North or South win two more tricks, and if the club ten were allowed to win, North could cash the top spade for the ninth trick at once.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Boredom is one of the biggest killers in marriage and if the new social and economic conditions have imposed hardships on the young people in one sense these same conditions have gone a long way toward eliminating from marriage the kill-joy of boredom. Young people are meeting each other in school, college, office, store and factory on a basis of clean companionship and friendship such as has never existed before. The girls know how to swim, skate, ride, play golf and tennis with the boys, whereas formerly they knew only how to dance. They have studied the same textbooks, engaged in the same sports, worked side by side in the same offices and, marriage delayed on account of scarcity of money, they have improved the shining hours by cultivating their common interests.

They have learned the value of a dollar which is something their mothers never knew until they were married, something few know until they have had to make earnings tally with expenditures. They have acquired an independence and a self-sufficiency that will keep them from hanging like heavy weights around the necks of husbands. They have discarded the inherited idea that a woman is a household ornament. They are ready for the partnership in marriage.

In the not-so-long-ago when money grew on trees the average girl took the first man that came up. After a whirlwind courtship that was too short for either's learning anything of the other's character, hopes, prejudices or prejudices they plighted their mutual troth. Convention decreed that a well-bred girl shouldn't discuss intimate subjects with the man with whom she was going to spend her life. She didn't dare try to find out how her fiancé felt about many of the topics that were at the heart of their marriage. She blundered blindly into a union supposed to last for life and supposed to net each of them happiness. Likely they had nothing in common but a few thrills which time was destined to still. That was enough—but not today.

These young people in their frank and free conversation sometimes quite shocking to the old-fashioned) are getting a line on each other. With the aid of their sharpened wits by education and experience, with minds cleared of outmoded superstitions and traditions, they are coming to sensible conclusions as to whether or not they are suited to each other, whether or not they have in common tastes and ideals and whether or not they have companionship and partnership.

After they are married they reap other benefits from the new order of things. Science has devised a thousand and one methods of taking the drudgery out of housework. The young bride may buy her raw biscuits in a box, having only to run them in the stove to bake them. Her bread is delivered to her sliced, ready to be toasted. The 12-hour process of breadmaking that kept her at home mixing, setting, kneading and resting, then baking, is no more. Those hours are now hours of leisure in which she can step out to lectures, to shopping, or hours in which she can read and keep up with the husband who is not hustling. That is if she herself is not also hustling for half of their living.

When the baby comes she bathes and dresses him and puts him in his bed where he lies until time to feed him, and she has the process of day after day. Science has taught her that the incessant handling and fondling which formerly required all her time and strength is not only unnecessary, but actually injurious to the baby. So she is getting liberty where once she had slavery. When the husband comes home she isn't restricted in her conversation to the number of times the baby has cried and the way he took his food. Science has relegated the baby to his proper place and it doesn't pre-empt the husband's place.

The kill-joy boredom is out of the modern marriage. It forced husbands who go astray. It is bored wives who kick out of the traces. And if the new order has done nothing more than eliminate boredom from marriage it has already served a good purpose. "Say not there are no days like the old days."

At the suggestion of Mrs. R. L. Cooney, director of Atlanta's garden center, members of the center who assembled at Rich's yesterday for a luncheon board meeting unanimously endorsed the three-day dogwood festival to be held in Atlanta next spring. The festival will be sponsored by the garden center under the director of Mrs. Cooney, according to the garden clubs represented at yesterday's meeting the project will receive full co-operation of clubs connected with the garden center.

Mrs. Albert Thornton, president of the Peachtree Garden Club, pledged the support of her club as did other presidents attending the meeting. Mrs. Cooney stated that elaborate plans would be formed for the three-day festival which will attract visitors from all over the country to Atlanta at that season. Tentative plans made for the celebration include a mammoth pageant, carnival, parade and balls, featuring the dogwood in every detail.

Mrs. Cooney stated that the festival would be in line with Mayor Key's plan of making Atlanta the dogwood city. A report of the latter project was made at yesterday's meeting by Mrs. Dowell Brown, chairman of Mayor Key's central committee in this undertaking. Mrs. Brown outlined plans for the work and named the garden clubs acting as steering committees in each section of the city.

Mrs. Cooney appointed a committee to study the work of other garden centers throughout the country. She suggested that the group study the purposes and aims of other garden centers. The committee will report its findings at the next meeting of the board, and will also submit rules and by-laws for the operation of Atlanta's garden center. The committee named by Mrs. Cooney includes Mesdames George Costes, F. M. Swanson, N. H. Lee, W. H. Hunnicutt, F. Warren Clark, Green Warren, Mrs. Lovell, George Pratt, Oscar Palmour, Charles Moyer and Everard Richardson Jr.

Mrs. W. D. Manley gave a review of the program sponsored by the garden center for the past six months. Mrs. Arthur Tufts, chairman of road-side beautification, outlined plans for making Atlanta a cleaner and more beautiful city. Mrs. Walter Lamb, chairman of the horticultural committee, spoke of work being done along this line. She emphasized that members begin a more diversified garden program. One hundred members were present at the meeting.

Joyce Wethered Meets Bobby Jones Today

ENGLISH STAR, CHARLIE YATES TO BE PAIRED

Miss Kirby Bob's Partner in Exhibition Match at East Lake.

By Ralph McGill.

Miss Joyce Wethered, internationally known as the finest woman golfer the game has seen, will be one of an all-star foursome in an exhibition match at the East Lake Country Club this afternoon at 2 o'clock over the No. 1 course.

Miss Wethered will be paired with Charlie Yates, Atlanta's national intercollegiate golf champion, and as opponents they will have Bobby Jones, of whom you've heard, and Miss Dorothy Kirby, former state champion and one of whom you'll hear.

Bobby Jones will play today despite the fact he goes immediately to a hospital, there to have removed an appendix which has staged a revolution and wishes to be free. He plays despite the fact he shouldn't. It was this same illness which kept him confined to his bed in Atlanta for nine days and that prevented him appearing in Miss Joyce's first match in this country.

CHIEF FEATURE.

Thus, Atlanta will see the match which was arranged as the chief feature of her tour, the best golfer the world ever saw against the best woman golfer the game has developed. The supporting cast is excellent.

The match is sponsored by the A. W. G. A., which is not one of the new government departments but the familiar Atlanta Woman's Golf Association. Tickets will be on sale at the gate this afternoon and may be had for the nominal sum of $1.00.

Miss Wethered's swing is regarded, along with that of our own Bobby Jones, as being the most rhythmic and fluid-like swing in golf. She and Bobby were two of the golfers chosen for the super-slow movies in which swings were studied for teaching.

In this, her first visit to America, she has been defeated only once. This was the match of last Saturday when Fred Haas Jr., the southern amateur champion, and Wee Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond professional, set new course records in the Virginia capital city to defeat Miss Wethered. She has been setting new women's records at various courses, shooting down in the 70's from the men's tees. She plays always from the men's tees and her drives are rarely behind those of her masculine opponents. Her entire game is a solid one, being first-rate from tee to, and into, the cup.

SUPPORTING CAST.

The supporting cast for the two stars, is an excellent one and one which Atlanta likes. Yates did well in the Oakmont competition and Miss Kirby is a delight to see. Each has been playing well. There are a lot of titles represented there. Miss Wethered and Jones have held many national titles. Yates holds one at present and Miss Kirby was Georgia state champion at the age of 13.

So it is quite a foursome, really an important event, which gets started at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The place—East Lake course No. 1.

HEINMAN MEETS ROSS TONIGHT

Fans are advised to go early tonight to the Key arena, where, in addition to a bang-up wrestling program, there will be something material for the fans to take away with them.

Tonight is the night that ticket holders will be presented with 500 baskets of groceries, 500 boxes of candy, two radios, beer, wine and so on as they flock past the turnstiles at Fair street and Delta place.

There will be a present for every fan. There is no advance in prices. The wrestling program is scheduled to get under way around 8:15 o'clock. It all depends on how long it takes to give away all the presents. This is one delay to which the fans will not object.

As for the wrestling card, it virtually speaks for itself. Fact is, fans will have a hard time choosing between the feature and semi-features.

Otto Heinman, the big German who has successfully stood off all challengers since he has been here, faces bold Black Jack Ross, the bald Greek.

This is to be the 90-minute best-two-out-of-three falls match. Both wrestlers are noted for their roughing. They throw science to the winds and go primitive.

The supporting match really should steal the show. After a year, Tarzan Jordan, Atlanta favorite, and Honey Boy Hackney, the New Jersey flying scissors specialist, have been rematched. They twice fought to draws last year.

And each time the fans stood up and cheered. Both boys vow they'll get a decision in their third meeting.

Totem Pole Anderson, the Alaskan who uses the handle-bar twist, painful wrist hold with much success, faces White Patterson, Atlanta boy, in the opener.

Tickets are on sale at the Five Points Soda Company at popular prices or may be received by calling Walnut 2539.

Couch Sluggers Defeat Demons

The Sandlotters went into action in a big way Monday afternoon with two games in the Rose Bowl and two at the James L. Key school.

At the Rose Bowl the Couch Sluggers took it from the Demons, 9 to 4. The feature was Light's stick work. With four times up Light got two singles and 2 triples.

The other game in the Bowl was a most one-sided affair. The Barons making the game with the Northwest Juniors a footrace, the score being 32 to 1, the one run by the Juniors being a homer by Hollingsworth off Kiles in the last half of the sixth.

At Key, where the Key Aces met the Murphy Eagles, it was a pitchers' battle between Duckett and Echols from the start. The feature of this game was a homer by Manders in the last inning, scoring four runs, final results being 5-4 for the Eagles.

The Two 'Greatest' Meet Again

Miss Joyce Wethered, right, regarded as the greatest woman golfer the game has known, is shown as she arrived yesterday afternoon at the airport from Washington. She is with Bobby Jones, the greatest player the game ever knew, who met her yesterday. They played a match in England some years ago and meet again today at East Lake. This present tour is Miss Wethered's first visit to the United States and yesterday was her first plane ride. Photo by Turner Hiers.

Miss Wethered Pleased To See Bobby Jones

Greatest Woman Golfer Enjoys First Plane Ride; Thrilled With America.

By Ralph McGill.

The tall English girl came out the door of the airport station and looked about.

"Oh," she said, looking toward the west where the sky was streaked with long, comfortable looking clouds, red and scarlet and pink with the rays of the sun which already was below our horizon.

"You don't see THAT in England," Joyce Wethered said, turning to Miss Dorothy Shaw, who is accompanying her on her golf tour of the United States which also is her first visit to the United States.

The most famous woman golfer in the world arrived by plane late Monday afternoon for her match today at East Lake wherein Bobby Jones, Charlie Yates and Dorothy Kirby are to play.

Bobby Jones was there to meet her and she seemed most pleased to see him, as everyone is on seeing Bobby Jones. They recalled their last meeting in England when she and Bobby played a match and Bobby won, by a great last play on the 18th green.

She is a striking looking young lady, is Miss Wethered. She wore yesterday a blueish-gray English tweed with hat to match. Her shoes were brown and white sport shoes.

"I'm having a perfectly glorious time," she said. "I am thrilled with America. It is my first visit, you know, and I like it immensely. It is different from England, of course. I like your country. They too, are interesting. The construction is about the same but the grass is so different."

Miss Wethered made her first plane flight yesterday, the first in her life. Somehow she never had tried a flight in England.

"It was so hot in Washington," she said. "Miss Shaw did not seem to mind it but I did and when we could not get an air-cooled train at the hour we had to leave we took the plane."

Miss Shaw, who has been in America before, but never to the south, is entranced with us. She likes American Pullmans which we have been led to believe are not so good as those abroad. In England the Pullmans have one sleeping sideways to the direction of travel. In ours one sleeps pointed with the direction. She likes our trains. She and Miss Joyce like us. And Americans like them. All of which makes it mutual.

And, what is more, she thinks our country and our houses look "more continental" than England. "I really think the homes in the east and around Washington look more like France than America," she said.

"Everyone has been so kind to us," she said, "our trip has been just one holiday."

Miss Wethered, who had located her baggage and was having it moved to the Jones car, found time to say she was playing rather well but was somewhat handicapped in finding her real game.

"I have to play each course blind," she said. "That is to say I have never seen it before and so haven't practiced on it. That isn't so good but I am enjoying it ever so much."

She is, she said, looking forward to the homes in the east and around Washington with pleasure her match with Bobby Jones in England and is so delighted to play with him again today.

Before the plane arrived, it being a few minutes late, I asked Bobby Jones

PERRY, HAAS CO-FAVORITES AT RICHMOND

135 Contenders To Battle in Southern Qualifying Today.

By Dillon Graham.

RICHMOND, Va., June 17.—(AP)—Sam Perry, Birmingham veteran seeking his third crown, and Fred Haas Jr., the young titleholder of New Orleans, ranked as co-favorites tonight for the southern amateur golf championship starting tomorrow over the James River course of the Country Club of Virginia.

Perry, who won the title six years ago at Chattanooga and three years later at Birmingham, was among some 135 contenders who will battle through the first round of the 36-hole qualifying test in quest of the 31 positions available for the match play competition beginning Thursday.

Haas, as champion, elected to take the No. 1 position without qualification. As champion, he had the option of trying for the qualifying round medal if he chose. However, he barely slipped in last year and smartly decided to take no chances this time.

High winds, which frequently sweep across this course, blew some of the last practice round a bit high, and brought a consensus among the players that scores of 158 likely would make the championship flight and that the medalist's score probably would be some 12 strokes lower.

A year ago 157 squeezed in the title fight and 144 won a medal.

Ranked along with Perry as dangerous challengers were Edwin McCure, of Shreveport, medalist last year, who was due to arrive tonight; Morton McCarthy, of Norfolk, who Saturday won the Middle Atlantic championship; Allan Smith, of Asheville; Dick Payne, of Norfolk, runner-up in the Middle Atlantic; Earl Stokes, of Louisville, who was a finalist two years ago; Horace Williams, the Florida champion from St. Petersburg, and Billy Howell, of Richmond.

Haas gave notice that he was well on his game with a pair of sub-par 7's, and Perry and Smith cracked out par 7's. McCarthy, hitting his tee shots a mile, showed that he would be a real threat by burning up the first nine holes today in 34, 2 under par, and finishing with an eagle 3 on the difficult 545-yard 9th hole.

Play in the first of the two 18-hole rounds will get under way around 9 o'clock tomorrow on this rolling, 6,708-yard course.

The site of the 1936 tournament, it was rumored today, will be the Colonial Country Club, of Memphis, Tenn. However, no vote has been taken as yet by the association directors.

Gate City Net Stars Win Southern 14 Times

Grant, Bulldog of Baselines, Leads With Seven Victories; Carlton Smith Four-Time Winner.

By Jack Troy.

There is no question about Atlanta's supremacy in the 50 years the southern tennis tournament has been played. Did anybody say there was?

Anyway, should Bryan Grant, who has just won the golden jubilee tournament, decide to retire right now, there is much against any player equalling his record of victories in the next 50 years.

Grant yesterday won with amazing ease over Hal Surface, who is the Missouri Valley champion, losing only five games. The scores were 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. Bitty probably could have won with the loss of fewer games. The Missourian eliminated Billy Reese, Tech captain, in the semi-finals.

Surface played in the Atlanta Invitational and caught the eye of the gallery with his all-around game. He has beautiful form and strokes. But he didn't have a chance against the Bulldog of the Baselines, as few have.

Grant, now defending his title in the national clay courts tournament at Chicago, is only one of two players, outside of Big Bill Tilden's record performances, who have won this fixture twice. Walter T. Hayes is the other player.

The record established by Bill Tilden is seven victories. They'll be a long time catching long-legged Willie's mark.

SMITH BIG WINNER.

Seven times Grant has won the southern tournament. The next best record is also held by an Atlantan, Carlton Y. Smith won the tournament four times—1912, 1918, 1920 and 1921.

Only three other players have won it as many as three times and an Atlantan is included in this list. He is Nat Thornton, who was champion in 1907, 1908 and 1913.

So, as a matter of record, Atlanta players, winning the tournament 14 times between them, have virtually monopolized the first 50 years which are said to be the hardest.

Back in the gay nineties, E. L. Hall was the big winner, taking the tournament three times—1891, 1892 and 1893. J. C. Davidson came along and won the tournament in 1898, 1899 and 1900.

Grant's record is all the more outstanding inasmuch as he entered the tournament only eight times and won seven times. Cliff Sutter, New Orleans star, defeated Bitty in 1932. It was a five-set match. Sutter won the first set, 7-5, and Grant won the next two, 6-3, 6-1. Then Sutter went to work and closed out the match by winning the next two, 6-1, 6-4.

WON AT 16.
Bitty's victories include 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1933, 1934 and 1935.

ary cut for January and February of this year when he vetoed a councilmanic resolution setting up $27,500 for that purpose.

The mayor's action was taken at St. Joseph's infirmary, where he has been ill for more than two weeks.

Although he made no statement regarding his action, saying he would give his reasons later, it was anticipated he will cite the stringent financial condition of the municipality and the fact that the city is facing an actual deficit this year on the basis of anticipated income.

It also was expected Key will stand adamant on his demand that none of the salary cuts made necessary in the economy drive be reinstated until the city has more money. It is likely that he will refuse to sign pay checks unless ordered to do so by the courts in the event the resolution is passed over his veto.

Key has insisted consistently that the municipality live within its income and his veto was regarded in the city hall circles as an indication he will resort to whatever power his office may provide to prevent paying out funds which he believes will not be forthcoming.

New Orleans Blaze Causes Heavy Damage

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—(AP)—A stubborn fire which started at noon today in the 13th floor storeroom of the Maison Blanche building, site of one of the city's largest department stores, was brought under control late this afternoon after more than a dozen firemen and one civilian had been overcome by smoke and fumes. The loss, largely covered by insurance, will run into many thousands of dollars. An hour and a half after the blaze was discovered, Fire Chief John M. Evans announced that the fire was under control, but a few minutes later the building's water supply failed as a result of a burst standpipe and the flames raged freely for 30 minutes, while firemen constructed hose lines from the street 13 floors below.

than it is now. Accordingly, Frank Miller, welfare board director, was instructed to refer all the new group of unemployed back to the FEHA. The latter organization, however, announced yesterday.

representative Tarver, democrat, Georgia, to establish a national memorial park on the Kennesaw Mountain battlefield near Atlanta was forwarded today to the White House.

The measure authorized an expenditure of $100,000.

Final legislative action was completed when the house approved the conference report. The senate previously had acted, agreeing to the house provision authorizing purchase of land as well as acquisition by donations.

Tarver expressed confidence the President will sign the bill. Kennesaw was one of the bloodiest battlefields of the War Between the States. There 15,000 men were engaged as the Confederate General Joseph E. Johnston sought to head off General Sherman in his march to the sea. After the fighting 15,000 casualties, in dead, wounded and missing, were counted.

Funds authorized by congress will be used in purchasing land and in improvements to the battlegrounds. Difficult of access now, new broad highways will be constructed to its top, so that tourists will obtain a good view of the entire scene of the bloody battle during the War Between the States.

In conjunction with making Kennesaw mountain a national park and with development of the Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain, a new scenic highway through the two focal points has been proposed. It is planned to construct a beautiful, winding roadway through a series of parks between Kennesaw and Stone mountains in the near future.

Essential Points Wanted.
Although some republicans, and a few democrats, said they doubted the constitutionality of the provision authorizing Wallace to "order" marketing agreements for handlers of a half-dozen commodities, they apparently were anxious to retain essentials of the farm adjustment law and willing to leave debatable points to the courts.

Under the "order" device which replaced the originally proposed licensing and marketing agreement, 50 per cent of the handlers by volume agree, or if two-thirds the farmers affected in the given class wish it—for handlers of milk, tobacco, fruits (except apples and fruit for canning), walnuts and pecans, vegetables (including soy beans but excepting eggplants, okra, okra, and tomato) or turpentine. In the case of milk only, prices to producers may be fixed, and milk retailers also may be subject to the "orders."

House Chiefs Push
'Must' Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—In a headlong rush toward a goal of adjournment in less than a month, house majority chiefs tonight pushed the Wagner labor disputes bill to the top of their "must" list and sought to enact it by Thursday night.

At the same time, some senate leaders placed the Guffey coal stabilization bill as their next order of business after the social security plan. The Guffey bill still is in the hearing stage in the house.

AAA AMENDMENTS PASSED IN HOUSE TO SAVE PROGRAM

Legislation Intended To Rescue Farm Plans
From High Court Death
Sentence of "Illegality."

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Amendments intended to protect the New Deal's farm program from a supreme court death sentence of "unconstitutionality" today swept through the house by a three-to-one majority.

Carefully phrased by Secretary Wallace and his aides in an effort to meet standards set by the high court in the NRA decision, the AAA amendments which have kicked about congressional corridors for months now looked to the senate for final approval.

Opposition there, which last year blocked action on similar legislation covering the handling and distribution of farm products, had lessened and leaders planned to push the revamped bill to an early vote.

So listless was the house contest over the AAA program that a record vote was not forced. Speaker Byrnes counted 168 members standing in favor of passage to 52 against. Party lines split.

The long fight against the cotton processing tax by New England textile interests ran into a 57-to-17 vote rebuff on Wigglesworth's resolution, Massachusetts, motion to have cotton producers paid benefits directly out of the treasury.

A $15,000,000 public works program for the Greater Atlanta district, utilizing federal and municipal funds and providing for new schools, a new sewer system, completion of the Stone Mountain Memorial, a new Atlanta airport and other important projects was approved by the Engineering Council of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

Under the program, the city would be required to issue approximately $5,000,000 in bonds, which would be repaid over a period of 30 years by means of a sales tax.
